'PLAYGROUND' PLAN SHOWN

Probably the biggest proposed "playground" in British Columbia is pointed out by Kelowna Parks and Recreation superintendent Gordon Smith, following Wednesday's presentation to the public of the plan for a 75-acre sports complex along Highway 97 east. First priorities for the development, projected for 1981, include a $300,000 senior citizens' building at either the Highway 97 site or in the lakeshore area; an indoor swimming pool with diving and hydro-therapy sections and a huge community centre building for an all-inclusive range of activities. Other features will be a running track and new soccer field, acres of playing fields and acres of public park along the Mill Creek section of the site. The map shows an area bounded by Highway 97, Burch Road, Bernard Avenue and Spall Street.

Voters Give Wilson Kick Hand Tories Town Halls

LONDON (AP) — The Conservatives reign supreme in town halls across Britain today after routing Prime Minister Wilson's Labor party in municipal elections for the third straight year.

The balloting Thursday did not reduce Wilson's 71-seat majority in the House of Commons. But more than 600 Labor party workers were thrown out of local offices, and the party's chances in the national elections Wilson must call within the next two years looked dimmer than ever.

The voting left Labor in control of only 25 of the 368 town councils in England and Wales. Labor holds none of the major cities.

Greater damage was done last year when Labor lost London and other town halls that had not known a Tory mayor for generations. This time Labor lost control of 13 towns, won back one and saw its minority dwindle everywhere else. There was no voting in London boroughs this time.

Wilson's forces lost a total of 637 town council seats in England and Wales and 18 in Scotland. The Conservatives won 630 new seats and gained control of 17 more town councils.

The Labor losses had been expected. Public opinion polls continually show the resentment of voters against the government that devalued the pound in 1967, raised taxes and put on other unpopular austerity measures, yet still has not solved the nation's economic problems.

Brenda Workers Remain Silent

A back-to-work ultimatum issued by Brenda Mines Ltd., Tuesday, has so far failed to get a reaction from 100 striking members of the Tunnel and Rock Workers, local 108, and the International Union of Operating Engineers.

The directive orders the men to report for work Monday at 8 a.m., or face discharge by the company. In a statement made "reluctantly" by mine manager Gordon Montgomery, the company action is in accordance with its collective agreement with the locals.

Still refusing to cross plumbers' union picket lines at the mine site, are some 400 construction workers.

LOAD RESTRICTIONS
Midnight tonight is the deadline for load restrictions on all roads within the Kelowna highway district, according to a directive by district engineer, A. L. Freebairn, for the minister of highways.

Tornadoes Kill Two

KETTERING, Ohio (AP) — Tornadoes hopping across Ohio left two dead, perhaps 50 injured, about 400 homeless and millions of dollars in damage.

Gov. James A. Rhodes flew during the night to the two major scenes of destruction—Kettering and the Cadiz area—offering assistance to victims.

Heaviest damage Thursday occurred at this Dayton suburb. Rhodes said it might qualify as a disaster area.

Also hard hit was the Tappan Lake region near Cadiz, 175 miles east of here.

Mrs. Harry Pogue, 42, was killed when the storm levelled her house near the lake.

Jefferson D. Miller, 20, of Alexandria, was killed when a tree, split by lightning or wind, fell on his car near Columbus.

Air Strike Men Face-Off

MONTREAL (CP) — Bargaining teams in the Air Canada strike began face-to-face negotiations today in an attempt to settle the contract dispute and end a walkout which grounded the airline almost three weeks ago.

A spokesman for Air Canada said the "full negotiating teams for both sides" entered a meeting room in a downtown hotel shortly before 11 a.m.

Both sides agreed to recess until about mid-morning today, following a brief afternoon session Thursday.

The meeting, which lasted for about five minutes, involved Charles Eyre, chief Air Canada negotiator, who met alone with representatives of the International Association of Machinists in the union's hotel room.

After the session, Mr. Eyre said he had no comment on any of the issues involved or on how close the parties are to agreement.

Both sides, he said, are always probing and reconsidering their positions.

Regional District Seeks More Aid

A brief requesting more government financial assistance for regional district administration was presented to Premier W. A. C. Bennett during his short stop-over in Kelowna this week.

Presented by regional district chairman, W. C. Bennett, at the provincial government building Tuesday, the brief requests the government consider the provision of further government grants to the regional district, and adds that a $5,000 grant for planning and a $6,000 grant for administrative and general governing of the regional district are "not sufficient."

The brief requests further that such additional grants be "comparable to other municipalities in the province."

The Regional District of Central Okanagan recently approved a planning budget of $20,985, the sum of $5,000 of which is underwritten by a government grant.

Contacted at his home, regional district chairman, W. C. Bennett said "we feel we should get a per capita grant" to offset additional functions taken on by the regional district.

Mr. Bennett cited other municipalities which were receiving a $28 per capita grant from the provincial government. "We don't want anywhere near that," Mr. Bennett added, although he said regional district administration required more financial aid than was currently indicated from the government.

Ultimatum On Wage Level Termed 'Greedy And Foolish'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The International Woodworkers of America said Thursday it would not accept a refusal by Forest Industrial Relations Ltd. to grant an interim wage increase.

Union officials accused F.I.R., bargaining agent for the forest industry, of a greedy and foolish attitude in refusing the wage increase to 28,000 coastal workers.

The IWA had asked for the reopening of their two-year contract, with one year still to run, on the grounds companies are making excessive profits and workers are facing increasing living costs.

Following the refusal the union said its negotiating committee was still anxious to have the contract reopened to discuss a 12 per cent wage increase.

It did not spell out what action would be taken but it is expected to go over F.I.R.'s head and appeal directly to management on the job to obtain a reversal of the decision.

Syd Thompson, president of the Vancouver local, earlier said he would encourage the "frustration" felt by workers until management agreed to an interim increase.

F.I.R. said with its refusal that workers would get an 18-cent hourly increase June 15 under the contract and wages have outstripped lumber price increases and have "more than kept pace with the cost of living."

It also said that since 1950 wages have increased 172 per cent and lumber prices have increased an average of 40 per cent. Lumber prices go up and down in cycles, it said.

The IWA replied that since the current contract was signed last year, fir lumber prices have increased by 41 per cent, plywood 24 per cent, hemlock 35 per cent and shingles 60 per cent.

John M. Billings, F.I.R. president, said that if wages had been tied to the cost of living, the current base rate would be $1.07 an hour instead of the $2.94 in the contract.

The IWA in turn cited increases ranging from 39 to 100 per cent in profits of major companies in 1968 or 1969 and said the firms can easily afford a wage increase and an investment in good labor relations.

Tourniquet Of Apathy Stems Flow Of Kelowna Clinic Blood

"One of the worst blood donor clinics we've had in several years."

That's the word from Mrs. Richard Stirling, chairman of the donor committee for the Kelowna branch of the Canadian Red Cross.

Thursday's response to the clinic's final blood call was "a little better" than the two previous days, although the clinic netted only 1,099 pints of blood for the three-day period, 300 short of its goal of 1,400 pints.

A donor breakdown showed a gradual increase each day since the clinic began, with responses of 268, 345 and 488 for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday respectively.

"One bright spot" of the clinic, said Mrs. Stirling, were contributions from 139 new donors, mostly in the 17- and 18-year-old bracket.

Barred with the apathetic response this year, she attributed the sudden warm weather to "part of the reason" for the "disappointing" showing.

Held at the First United Church, Bernard Avenue and Richter Street, the clinic was staffed with two registered nurses, eight nurses' aides and three drivers, and will set up shop in Summerland today before returning to Vancouver Saturday.

"Maybe the donors we missed in Kelowna will go to Summerland," she said hopefully.

Israel Boosts Anti-Arab Fight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel stepped up operations against Arab guerrillas in Jordan in the past 36 hours with a commando raid that killed three Arabs and blew up 12 houses and two air strikes.

Israeli commandos dashed a mile and a half beyond the Jordan River Thursday night in the first such raid in nine months. They attacked houses in Wadi Jabis which "Arab saboteurs were believed to have used."

An Israeli spokesman said the village 20 miles south of the Sea of Galilee was abandoned. He said it had been the target of artillery attacks in the past.

The spokesman said there were no Israeli casualties.

Tribesmen Flee In West Irian

DIJAYAPURA (AP) — Some 30,000 primitive tribesmen have taken to the jungle in the Enarotali region of West Irian to wage a guerrilla war against Indonesian paratroops.

NEWS IN A MINUTE

Man Killed At Prince Rupert

PRINCE RUPERT (CP) — A man was killed when crushed between a pulley and counterweight at the Columbia Cellulose Co. mill on nearby Watson Island. He was identified today as Drago Carlo Picculini, 22, a native of Yugoslavia who had lived here for a year.

U.K. Police Hunt Deadly Poison

LONDON (Reuters) — Police searched for thieves who stole two gallons of cyanide—enough to wipe out half of London's population of 8,000,000. The deadly chemical was taken in a drum from a factory's security compound and factory workers were told over loudspeakers: "If it comes back untouched, no questions will be asked."

Biafra Claims 800 Foes Slain

ORLU, Biafra (AP) — The government of the secessionist Nigerian state of Biafra claims 800 federal soldiers were killed after three days of fighting 25 miles south of Owerri. A communique issued here also claimed Biafran successes in the sector on the road to Port Harcourt road sector.

Trudeau Takes Sharp Knife And Cuts Slice Of Austerity

OTTAWA (CP) — Faced with a sharp cost-of-living jump, Prime Minister Trudeau disclosed Thursday "very severe expenditure cuts" by the government are in the offing as an anti-inflation measure.

Without going into detail, he told the Commons, during opposition price-rise questioning, the planned reductions will hurt "different vested interests" in the country.

He called on opposition parties to support the government program when it comes. He told reporters outside the House the cuts will be the subject of a separate announcement after the presentation of Finance Minister E. J. Benson's budget statement next month.

The cuts, he said, would be much more than the usual annual review of spending of government departments. He hoped to get the public involved in the inflation problem.

Earlier, Commons Speaker Lucien Lamoureux rejected a bid by George Hees (Prince Edward-Hastings) for an emergency debate on the 1.1-per-cent cost-of-living increase during April. It was the biggest monthly rise in 13 years.

PICTURE UNCHANGED

Mr. Lamoureux felt that an emergency debate could not be expected to change the picture. Later NDP Leader E. C. Douglas asked what action the government planned on the increase which put the consumers price index at 124.6 based on the 1961 figure of 100.

Canada Likely To Take Part In U.S. Bomber Defence Plan

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada seems likely to take part in a new, multi-billion dollar bomber defence program for North America, judging by remarks made Thursday night by Defence Minister Leo Cadieux.

Mr. Cadieux told the Commons committee on defence and external affairs the proposed system is "entirely consistent with the principles and objectives of continental air defence" that Canada has espoused.

Statements by External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp before the committee also appeared to lend weight to the idea of Canadian involvement.

Neither minister attempted to predict what government policy will be in relation to the new weapons program being developed in the United States.

Nevertheless they seemed to offer plenty of circumstantial evidence that the government is leaning toward participation in the new program, which would be based in part on the new-evolving Airborne Warning and Control System (AWACS).

It would also include an interceptor aircraft different from the F101 Voodoos now being flown in NORAD—the North American Air Defence Command—and ground-based command and control radars.

LEO CADIEUX ... drops a hint

Former U.S. defence secretary Robert McNamara estimated last year that depending on the type of interceptor used, the projected air defence system would cost $12,500,000,000 to $13,700,000,000 in progress costs over 10 years plus $650,000,000 to $750,000,000 in annual operating costs.

ELECTION ON WAY

Well..., Maybe, Says Bennett

CRANBROOK, B.C. (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Thursday night a provincial election is "perhaps on the way" but no decision has been made.

Speaking to about 300 persons in the Legion Hall in Cranbrook, where he showed the government film The Good Life, the premier referred three times to an election.

The first time, he said there are many things he would like to say "but many people would like to interpret it as an election campaign. How jealous they are, how envious they are of our long term in office."

His next reference came as he defended the government film, which he said promotes tourism.

He said it will be shown "not only throughout our great province and great nation, but also through the United States and offshore too."

Mr. Bennett then repeated that no election decision had been made. And said: "Some small minds think there is politics in everything."

"When the decision is made, then you will know about it."

"There will be a time when an election will come. I don't know honestly when that election will be."

"But perhaps it is on the way. I don't know what date that will be, whether it is this year or next."

The premier appealed to his audience and East Kootenay residents to support the Social Credit government when the election does come.

Today, he will drive to Vancouver to spend the night, returning to Victoria on Saturday.

He begins the second leg of his provincial tour on the weekend by travelling to Nanaimo and on through northern B.C.

YES-AND-NO GAME

Millionaire Buddies Set For Great Air Race Duel

NEW YORK (AP) — A race-within-a-race developed Thursday between two millionaires—an American and a Briton.

It's part of the transatlantic competition commemorating the 50th anniversary of the first transatlantic non-stop flight made by British pilots John Alcock and Arthur Whitten Brown.

Paul J. Vaughan, Aurora, Ohio, businessman left Thursday on a commercial plane bound for London in what he called "a very private attempt" to beat out his friend, Ted Drewery, a London real estate owner.

"We are good friends and therefore we are here to beat the hell out of the other," Drewery arrived here two days ago after starting from the top of the London Post Office Tower, clocking with a chartered plane a total time of nine hours, 33 minutes and 28.98 seconds.

The Post Office Tower and the Empire State Building here are the two terminals of the race, sponsored by the London Daily Mail.

"I don't care if he used a private plane and I'm travelling instead like a regular passenger," said Vaughan. "Anyhow the loser will throw a huge party for the winner."

Max Conrad, famous flying grandfather, will leave today from New York with his single engine Piper Aztec. It will be his 20th solo crossing of the Atlantic. Conrad, 64, was forced to delay his scheduled departure two days ago because he lacked the proper permit for some experimental navigation equipment.

ARROW DAM DEDICATION SET

Premier W. A. C. Bennett and other dignitaries from Canada and the United States will participate in the Arrow Dam dedication ceremony to be held at the damsite on June 9. Dr. H. L. Keenleyside, Hydro chairman, said the ceremony will be held two days earlier than previously indicated to avoid conflict with the conference of prime ministers to be held in Ottawa June 11. Details of the ceremony are still in the planning stage but a memorable day in the history of the West Kootenays is indicated. Also attending the ceremony will be representatives from the Columbia Storage Power Exchange, B.C. Hydro officials, and civic and municipal leaders from Northwestern States, the Kootenays and other regions of British Columbia. Communities in the immediate vicinity of Arrow Dam and reservoir have been invited to take part in the day's events.

Some Weird Space Illness May Afflict Apollo Crewman

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Apollo astronauts' physician thinks it is almost certain that at least one man on the first moon landing mission will come home ill—maybe with some weird sickness of lunar origin.

"We have to face the fact that we've had post-flight illness on every Apollo mission so far," says Dr. Charles Berry, medical director of the Manned Spacecraft Centre at Houston, Tex.

"Our problem will be to determine whether any illness that shows up after Apollo 10 later this year are due to the stresses of space flight or to some micro-organism picked up on the moon."

"I personally do not believe there are any such minute forms of life on the moon, but no one can say for sure."

Dr. Berry discussed the astronaut ailment hazards in a talk Tuesday at the annual meeting of the Aerospace Medical Association and elaborated later in an interview.

Among the disabilities noted so far in the Apollo program, Dr. Berry said, are a marked loss of exercise capacity for a time after return to earth, and motion sickness in flight. Both of these, he said, apparently are because of the human body's attempts to adapt to weightlessness in space and to re-adapt to earth's gravity later.

TOKYO (Reuters)—A noted Soviet astronomer has warned United States astronauts that part of the surface of the moon is covered with a highly poisonous gas, a Japanese correspondent in Moscow reported today.

Nikolai A. Kozyev, a member of the Soviet Academy of Science, cabled the warning to the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space Administration, a correspondent of the national daily Asahi Shimbun said.

In an exclusive interview Monday, Kozyev said he found red gas gushing out of the crater Aristarchus near the Ocean of Storms by taking two spectrographs of the area, the correspondent said.

Analysis of the spectrographs proved the gas consisted of nitrogen gas and highly poisonous prussic acid gas (cyanogen), Kozyev was quoted as saying.

Wildlife Group's Chief Blasts Pollution Apathy

Government and business are paying only occasional lip service to conservation and pollution control, Howard Paish, executive director of the British Columbia Wildlife Federation, told a federation convention in New Westminster Thursday.

Government often uses the "we mustn't scare industry away" approach in sidestepping the problem, he said, but argued that income from pollution control has to come either from direct taxes or through increased consumer costs passed on through industry.

Mr. Paish cited the East Kootenay area as an example of destruction by pollution. "A few years ago it was recognized as one of the outstanding big game areas in the world," he said. He said for years industry used streams in the area as open sewers, and now there is serious concern over the decline of wildlife.

Northern Ireland's new prime minister, James Chichester-Clark, will meet British Prime Minister Wilson in London May 21, it was announced Thursday. The two will discuss Ulster's civil-rights problems, which have caused bloody street battles between feuding Roman Catholics and Protestants during the last eight months.

The CEC's plan to drop all radio and television advertising of tobacco products brought a mixed reaction in the Commons Thursday. Barry Mather (NDP-Surrey) a longtime campaigner against cigarettes, asked the government to congratulate the network for setting an "excellent example." Harold Danforth, Conservative member for the tobacco-growing constituency of Kent-Essex, said the move would have serious implications for Canadian producers.

The Canadian Pension Conference was told Thursday in Montreal that everybody is criticizing pension fund investment results. Terry J. Coburn, Air Canada's manager of investments, said "we who are responsible for the management of pension funds find ourselves on the firing line for the first time with our investment results."

The British Columbia Court of Appeal in Vancouver ruled Thursday that evidence on how employees voted in strike ballot is not admissible in court. Written reasons for judgment are to be handed down later. But Thursday the court allowed an appeal by the International Union of Carpenters and Joiners and set aside an anti-picketing injunction awarded earlier to Yakimovitch Construction in Victoria by Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton. The union and the Provincial Council of Carpenters argued during the hearing that admitting such evidence would encourage employers to investigate how union members voted in secret ballot.

A wholesale change in the staff of Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield is in the offing, Conservative party sources said Thursday. Mr. Stanfield's chief special assistant, Lowell Murray, 32, is planning to leave here before the next session of Parliament begins in the fall. It is understood that Mr. Murray is looking for a change of scene after seven years on Parliament Hill, during which time he served former justice minister David Fulton and the late Wallace McCutcheon, former trade minister.

Creditistes MPs Near End Of Long Filibuster List

OTTAWA (CP) — Creditiste MPs are down to their last amendment in the prolonged debate on the report stage—the step before final reading—of proposed changes in the Criminal Code.

Starting its 14th day of debate on the controversial bill today, the Commons will deal with an amendment proposed by Gilbert Rondeau (Creditiste-Shefford).

It would delete a clause of the bill which says a mother may get an abortion if her life or health is impaired by the pregnancy.

Mr. Rondeau's amendment appears headed for the same fate as a host of other Creditiste proposals voted down since the House began the drawn-out debate.

Two amendments were defeated Thursday.

One which sought to delete provision for an abortion if the mother's health is endangered was downed 151 to 41. It drew support from two Liberals, 26 Conservatives and one New Democrat.

Defeated 183 to 13 was an amendment which would delete the word "female person" in the abortion clause.

A minor vocal scrap broke out between Creditiste Leader Real Caouette and Liberal back-bencher Pierre De Bane (Matane) as MPs turned to a Creditiste amendment dealing with the hospital abortion committee.

SEEKS UNANIMITY Under the bill, a majority of the three members of the committee must approve an abortion. The Creditistes said the committee decision must be unanimous.

Justice Minister John Turner said the committee's decision would be made on the basis of experience and judgment. It was not reasonable to expect unanimity.

Mr. De Bane, a newcomer to the Commons, said the Creditistes are trying to destroy Parliament with their long string of amendments.

Mr. Caouette replied that Mr. De Bane was a clown and a smart aleck.

Mr. De Bane then said that he would not be lectured "by a disciple of Hitler and Mussolini." He also accused Creditiste Ronald Rodrique (Beauce) of making speeches filled with platitudes, stupid remarks and idiocies.

Deputy Speaker Hugh Faulkner, after several warnings to Mr. De Bane, said he would have to confine his speech to the bill. Otherwise, Mr. De Bane would have to resume his seat.

Rene Matte (Creditiste-Champlain) also repeated his party's claim that it does not want to impede the progress of the Commons.

The Creditistes would welcome adjournment of the debate on the code so other pressing business could be attended to.

But Prime Minister Trudeau said Wednesday that the government intends to continue the debate until the bill gets final approval. That could come by the middle of next week.

Hashish Girl Sentenced

VANCOUVER (CP) — Christine Penn, 18, was jailed for 15 months Thursday after being convicted of smuggling half a pound of hashish into the city for the purpose of trafficking. She was also fined $750 or nine months in default.

CHANNEL DREDGED

NANAIMO (CP)—The federal works department said Thursday it will dredge the approach channel to wharves at Nanaimo so larger ships can enter the harbor. Fill from the dredging will create another 13 acres behind the wharves.

BACK TO WORK

VANCOUVER (CP)—Striking members of the Lathers Union began returning to work today following a three-week work stoppage. A tentative settlement of their contract dispute will be ironed out and signed, giving them an increase of $1.30 an hour over two years on a base of $4.45.

INJUNCTION GRANTED

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mr. Justice Gould Thursday granted Kingcome Navigation Co. Ltd. an injunction against Seafarers International Union banning picketing of the self-propelled barge MV Haida Transporter at a dock in Vancouver. Great Northern Railway train crews earlier had refused to load cars on the barge when pickets appeared saying the barge had caused a crew cut.

APPOINTED HEAD

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. Robert M. Jordan, 45, a former faculty member of the University of British Columbia, will return to the campus in July to become head of the English department. He succeeds Dr. Geoffrey Durrant, who has resigned to teach, write and research.

GET RAISE

SURREY (CP) — Municipal employees in Surrey will get a 6.5 per cent wage increase in both years of a two-year contract announced Thursday by the Canadian Union of Public Employees. It will increase the base rate for a laborer to $2.98 an hour from Jan. 1 and to $3.16 an hour from next Jan. 1.

TODAY'S STOCK QUOTATIONS

TORONTO (CP) — The Toronto stock market stopped to catch its breath today after a strong 10-day surge as it waited the outcome of the current European monetary crisis and further news about recent oil and natural gas finds in Alaska and the Canadian Arctic.

Gains outnumbered losses by almost 40 issues in active mid-morning trading but index movements, except for golds, were fractional.

Golds were up for the fourth consecutive day as speculation increased about the future of the franc, pound and mark.

Many observers believe revaluation of European currency will take place this weekend. In golds, Giant Yellowknife was up ½ to 15½, Camflo 25 cents to $7.10 and Upper Canada 10 cents to $4.35.

Stocks of companies with an interest in Panarctic Oils, which reported an encounter of natural gas earlier this week on Melville Island in the Arctic, were mostly unchanged.

Dome Petroleum, operator of the well, said later that there were no indications that the find was of commercial value.

LOCAL ARTISTS' WORK ON DISPLAY

Some of the artistic examples of three local artists which will be on display today, Saturday and Sunday at the Okanagan Mission Community Hall, Lakeshore and DeHart. Left to right, artists are, Bob Kingsmill, Gwen Lamont and Chi Hamilton. Well known for her work in the Okanagan, Mrs. Lamont taught classes in portrait and figure, as well as painting in the park. Her students in clay modelling, designed and made theatre masks for the pantomimes, Big Bad Wolf and Land of Oz. She recently designed the dragon mask for the King and I. Salmon Armer, Chi Hamilton, will be exhibiting for the first time. A teacher of pottery at the Okanagan Mission, Bob Kingsmill studied under Muriel Guest, of Winnipeg, as well as in the fine arts department of the University of Manitoba. (Courier Photo)

Souvenir Book For 'Mr. Brier'

Pleasant memories of a fantastically successful sporting event were recalled this week by the man who did more than anyone else to make the activities memorable.

Harold Long, who headed the group which organized the 1968 Canadian Curling Championship in Kelowna last March has received from Brier officials a 14-page bound book detailing the Kelowna success story. The book contains a history of the Brier and a section on the Kelowna event, which will be added to the complete Brier publication.

Mr. Long said he was highly pleased with comments about the Kelowna event included in the booklet.

Kelowna was the smallest city to stage the Brier, yet ranked 14th in attendance in the past 27 Briers.

The booklet, which will be a fine souvenir for Mr. Long, who earned the nickname Mr. Brier, lists the personnel of all competing rinks at Kelowna, the scores of each game in all 11 draws, and the final standings. Alberta's Ron Northcott won with a 9-1 record.

The Brier's 1968 chapter says... "possibly no previous event had been decided under more pleasant conditions."

EVERYONE HOSTS

It appeared that every citizen of the Valley felt they were individual hosts to the hundreds of visitors. Kelowna presented a community spirit not too often apparent. Every visitor was made to feel welcome and the organization set up under the skillful leadership of general chairman Harold Long left little to be desired.

Although the first two days of Brier Week had bad weather, the skies later cleared and this is mentioned, along with a brief history of the Okanagan's industrial situation.

The busy round of social activities is reviewed and the colorful closing ceremonies re-capped.

Another Brier has become history since the Kelowna event (the 1969 Brier was in Oshawa), but memories of Kelowna's Brier Week will long linger for anyone connected with the event.

Social Assistance Families Meet With Planning Council

This week, in Kelowna, Social Assistance families from Peachland to Osoyoos were invited to meet with members of the Central Okanagan Community Social Planning Council.

In his opening remarks to the group, council chairman, A. I. Holmes stated, "In the past, planning for physical facilities has taken priority over planning for the needs of people in the community who will use these facilities. This council exists for the purpose of effecting a change by identifying, studying and making known unmet needs of all people in the area, and to give them help in finding ways to meet these needs."

Discussion centred on the most pressing problems of social assistance recipients as indicated by their replies to a questionnaire sent to them by the council last fall.

A major concern expressed was the desire for further training, in order to prepare for the labor market. "I want to be a useful citizen, but where do I go from here?" asked one handicapped young man who has already shown his ability by completing Grades 6 to 10 in less than a year with a 75 per cent average. "If facilities for further training for the handicapped were available, I could eventually get off Social Assistance." An older man, trained as a finishing carpenter, who is unable to work because of a disability, indicated his willingness to help train others.

A further meeting has been planned in Kelowna, however, transportation difficulties may necessitate some future meetings being held in the outer districts as well.

Social assistants who wish information about the date, time and place of the next meeting, or who need transportation to attend, should contact the Community Information Service and Volunteer Bureau at 762-3908 on week days from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

The Lakeview diversion project was built under the Agricultural Rural Development Act (ARDA) to improve the water system for about 1,250 acres of irrigated orchards and to provide domestic water for about 625 parcels of land that comprise the area.

Water was supplied to the district for both irrigation and domestic use by gravity through a closed pressure pipe system from the Rose Valley Reservoir, constructed as a component of the initial project. The Rose Valley Reservoir was in turn supplied by a diversion from Bear Creek consisting of a system of flumes, ditches and canals four to five miles long.

While costs for the Blue Angels continued to rise, executive members happily learned of several attractions which will come free, including the Canadian Forces air show, the Red Knight and three large bands: the North American Air Defence Command (NORAD) band; the Washington State Air National Guard band and the Canadian Forces band from Naden on Vancouver Island.

Band director Ron Saunders indicated there will be more than a dozen bands here, not just for the parade, but to perform around the city as well. Indications are this should easily be the most musical Regatta ever.

The Kelowna Kinsmen Club will be offered the same mid-way deal as last year; a 60-40 split of net profits, or a flat $3,000. The club must make up its mind by May 22. Last year the Kinsmen received 60 per cent, roughly $3,500, and the Regatta 40 per cent, about $2,800. Last week the Kinsmen asked that all the net profits be turned over to the indoor swimming pool fund, but this was rejected by the executive, which said it must examine its financial position.

The new 34-inch diversion pipe and dam to be officially opened Saturday, replaces the old system of water supply. Lakeview Irrigation District was completed under the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Act (PFRA) in 1951 at which time it consisted of 72 full-time farms and 53 small holding units on about 1,100 acres of benchland across Okanagan Lake from Kelowna.

The new underground pipe will carry a flow of approximately 15 cubic feet of water per second from Bear Creek to the Rose Valley Reservoir, the main storage area for the Lakeview Irrigation District.

Cost of the project was financed one-third each by the federal and provincial governments and the irrigation district.

The old dam and open-water diversion structures, built about 20 years ago, had been difficult and costly to maintain. Officials of the district are L. R. Dooley, chairman of trustees, Fred Dickson, vice-chairman, Fred G. Milligan, trustee, F. J. Menu, trustee, Reuben Huva, manager, M. Greenwood, retired trustee and W. B. Darroch, secretary.

"The new operations are on for inspection Saturday with the turn-on ceremony at 11 a.m. at the diversion end of the pipe at Bear Creek. There will be signs showing how to get there," said the secretary, Mr. Darroch.

Although the Great Kelowna Bathub Race doesn't start until 2 p.m. Aug. 8, training has begun in earnest. Bathub designs are being created, there is a great rush for six hp motors and even the fair sex is getting into the act. Reports indicate that Doreen and Gay are running a mile each night training for the 30-mile tub race. How this will help them isn't known. Perhaps they plan to walk, or run, on the water.

The rivalry came to the fore-front Wednesday night at the Aquatic, during the public meeting on the proposed new recreation complex. The meeting was told the first priority would be a $300,000 senior citizens activity complex.

An elderly gentleman, a representative of the branch-17 senior citizens splittist faction, literally jumped to his feet and demanded: "When do we get it? We've been waiting six years now. When do we get it?" A female representative of the other local senior citizens elec-ment, the less militant faction, asked later: "Does the branch 17 club get it all?" She was assured the new facilities would be open to absolutely every senior citizen in the area.

Occasionally a prankster can have fun without causing any damage, or hurting anyone's feelings. Such was the case early today at the corner of Paret Road and Duffart Road, where someone had deposited a Christmas tree, still mounted on its stand. With trends of recent years, merchants will likely soon be advertising Yule goodies anyway, so perhaps someone was simply getting an early start.

Record Budget Set By Regatta Officials

Interview Plan May Be Adopted

The Kelowna Regatta may at what makes itself tick. The water show's promotion department is considering a plan of interviewing people at Regatta events to find out where they are from and why they came to the Regatta. The idea ties in with planning during recent months, in which the Regatta has been trying to establish a "new image" to find out what people want and to get more local participation.

The United States Navy aerobatic team the Blue Angels will be asked to perform during the evening or not at all, the Regatta executive decided Thursday night. With costs for the single 45-minute show well past the originally estimated $3,000, and possibly past $5,000, the executive felt the only way the expense could be justified would be to have the "Blues" fly about 7 p.m., so more people would be attracted to the City Park. Indications are the team would prefer to perform at 3 p.m., but might consider taking off no later than 7 p.m., so they could be back on the ground by dusk. Looking at a possible cost of $5,200, the executive agreed this was too high and the money could be better spent in the City Park. The executive has until 30 days before the Regatta to cancel out on the air show and the navy team has until the last minute to decide not to perform. Morris Aviation of Vernon will be checked on the possibility of staging some sort of air show.

While costs for the Blue Angels continued to rise, executive members happily learned of several attractions which will come free, including the Canadian Forces air show, the Red Knight and three large bands: the North American Air Defence Command (NORAD) band; the Washington State Air National Guard band and the Canadian Forces band from Naden on Vancouver Island.

British Labor Government Should Go To Country

It appears the knives are being sharpened for Mr. Harold Wilson, prime minister of Great Britain. A number of Labor party members appear to be organizing to depose him—if they can. Whatever these people may think, from this distance it looks as though the crisis in the British government is a crisis in the Labor party and not of its leadership. It would appear up to the party to reform itself, to restrict its naive hopes and accept a few hard realities. And, instead of worrying about leaders, try to keep its own head. If it wants to reform itself, it will do as well with the present leaders as any. It may, however, prefer to disintegrate, for it appears so confused it is hardly capable of making a rational leadership choice.

If any other Labor party leader took Mr. Wilson's place, the party's crash when it came would only be the more catastrophic. It would also do only the more damage to the long-suffering country and its economy. It would appear that what Britain needs now is a general election as soon as it can be constitutionally arranged. The plotting and the counter-plotting of the Labor politicians are a confusion side issue tending to produce chaos.

Mr. Wilson, of course, has to bear the responsibility to the country of the leader of an administration which has failed to master events. But this responsibility must be shared by all Labor party MPs who are his majority in the House of Commons. They have, apart from their party responsibility, the duty of ensuring the government of Britain is properly and effectively conducted. They must ask themselves whether Britain can afford to be governed in the next two years as ineffectively as in the past two.

It would appear that from the country's point of view the best thing Mr. Wilson could do would be to call a general election. But this is perhaps the least likely thing that will happen. Mr. Wilson probably will remain as prime minister for at least another year and try to overcome the government's problems—if he can.

If the Parliamentary Labor Party members seek to save their own skins by ditching their leader, that is their affair. But it is hardly likely that their rejection of Mr. Wilson will commend them to the British electorate. The whole nub of the British situation seems to be that the Labor members in the Commons have lost confidence in their leader and in themselves too. Their duty to Britain now is to give the electorate the opportunity of choosing a new government and a new prime minister.

A Threat To Freedom

In this country we like to talk about our freedoms which are unique compared with conditions in any other part of the world. However, this is no time for complacency. Freedom must be guarded and defended constantly or it could be lost.

The Daily Mercury of Guelph notes that a characteristic of world society in the 1960s, is the rise of power groups in society: Black Power, student power, consumer power and the like. Each group has its own particular axe to grind, its own specific and peculiar demands to make. To obtain their ends the power groups will use any possible means at hand. If they have the power they will grab whatever they can.

"In this struggle there is little doubt that many of those who are active have very real grievances," the Mercury continues. They feel that only by the use of naked and bare power will they bring about the necessary reform and change. This attitude is, however, becoming so dominant that some of the power groups feel that the use of physical power in the form of violence is an end in itself. Discussion, reasoning and compromise they reject. They must have what they want —or else; and this in turn provokes reaction from other power groups. Last week's fracas at Harvard University demonstrates this clearly.

"Among history's many political lessons one stands out. Where men, without any feeling of responsibility either to man or God, come into conflict as power groups the result is anarchy. As a result freedom disappears. Fear tends to dominate men's thinking when this happens, destroying their sense of freedom and direction. They then turn, as we saw in Germany in the early thirties, to dictatorship to bring a sense of security and stability at the cost of freedom and often at the price of terror.

"In the present situation in North America we face the same danger. The fear generated by the violence of power-bloc confrontations could well lead to a demand for a dictatorial government to stem the conflicts and to restore order. Dictatorship and oppression, whether of left or right, would be the only answer and freedom would depart. History has shown that this happens repeatedly and we should recognize that despite all our traditions of liberty, that 'it can happen here.'"

Identifying 25 Heroes

(Victoria Colonist)

An intriguing international competition whose objective is to identify the 25 greatest heroes of the world was launched in London recently.

The contest is open to teachers and students intending to become teachers, each of whom will be required to submit his list of 25 people, living or dead, which he considers to have contributed most to a world community.

The judges, with Sir Edward Boyle as chairman, will include an Iranian lawyer, an Egyptian academic, a Chinese historian and the mayor of Hiroshima.

According to a report in a London newspaper, Professor Joseph Lauwerys, joint chairman of the education advisory committee of the Parliamentary Group for World Government, whose organization is behind the competition, has "wickedly" worked out his own list of great malefactors.

Among these (and who can be eliminated in any hero list) he mentions: Plato, "for his concept of class and racial division as a basis of society"; Wellington, "who prevented the unification of Europe"; Peter the Hermit, "who started the Crusades," and Dainier, "who invented the motor car."

It will be interesting to learn whether any Canadian makes the heroes' list—or indeed if any, alternatively, appear in Professor Lauwerys' tabulation of non-heroes.

Bygone Days

10 YEARS AGO

May 1959

The junior high school grounds were jumping last night as eager young girls 12 years and under, turned out to the number of 70 to take part in the Canadian Legion, Branch 28, girls' softball program. Mrs. Pat Black, organizer of the league last year, and Joe Fisher, Legion sports chairman turned out to register the girls, and form tentative teams.

May 1949

The Westbank Women's Institute celebrated their coming of age (21 years) by entertaining members of the Peachland WI at tea and a musical program at the Westbank Memorial Hall. A birthday cake decorated in institute colors, gold, green and white was displayed, and Mrs. Pritchard, the first president, lit the 21 candles. Presiding at the urn were Mrs. D. Gentry and Mrs. A. Pearnley, assisted by Mrs. T. B. Reece.

30 YEARS AGO

May 1939

A renewed drive to complete the Naramata Road is being undertaken. The week of May 7-13 has been declared "Naramata Road Week" and a full page advertisement in the Kelowna Courier publicizes the drive. April 30 was "Rutland Day" and Felix Casorso organized a crowd. The Elks are going out this Sunday, and the Sons of England and Old Fellows will send crews later. A "Naramata Road Dance" will be held May 10.

40 YEARS AGO

Phyllis Cook of Kelowna was awarded the Grand Challenge Cup for her fine performance in the violin class of the instrumental section at the Musical Festival, with 93 marks out of a possible 100. Miss Isobel Murray was second with 90 marks.

50 YEARS AGO

May 1919

In spite of disagreeable weather on Sunday last a goodly number of Odd Fellows paraded to the United Church to attend the Centennial Service of the order. A number of visiting brothers from Vernon and Armstrong also took part, and they were joined at the church by local and visiting Rebekahs. The Rev. E. D. Braden conducted the service, and the local choir provided special music. "West Be the Tie That Binds" concluded the service.

Fussy Eaters Noted Even At Age Three

By DR. GEORGE THOSTESON

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How much milk should a child of three get? Since she has been off the bottle, she doesn't seem to drink very much. Does she get the required nutrition from other foods? She is a small eater.—MRS. G.F.

Youngsters are apt to be finicky eaters at age three—not that all of them are, of course. But when they are small eaters at that age, and there is no physical condition bothering them, you find that they change their eating habits when a growth spurt occurs.

Children, you know, grow in spurts. They seem to show little growth for a time, then grow inches in a short time, then slow down again for a time. These growth spurts require food—so presto! The appetite improves.

Even so, you should try to get the little girl to drink (or otherwise get) at least three cups of milk a day. Don't give the milk between meals, as it may dull her appetite. It isn't necessarily required that she drink the milk, because you can keep track of how much she is getting with her cereal, in puddings, and in bread. She needs the milk because of the generous amount of calcium in it, which helps build good bones.

While she is at this light-eating stage, your pediatrician may suggest giving a vitamin supplement.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am trying the grapefruit diet plan in which you are supposed to lose 10 pounds in 10 days. It requires no eating of foods containing sugar, starch, or flour, and you must eat grapefruit at each meal. If I miss a few grapefruits, would this affect the diet plan? Is this a healthy plan to follow?—L.V.S.

The grapefruit is mainly for its psychological effect; it does not reduce weight.

More important, the grapefruit plan is unsound nutritionally, and I adamantly refuse to endorse or recommend it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read about the man who took his wife's estrogen in error, resulting in his breasts filling out to female size.

My wife is 48. We have an exceptionally fine sex relationship but her breasts are hardly developed at all. If female sex hormone will develop a male, will it not also develop a female?—I.D.

Sorry, but no. Your wife, being a woman to start with, has her normal share of female hormones. Giving her more of them will not change her physical build—some large, but they have the hormones natural for their sex.

In the instances in which men are given (deliberately or accidentally) female hormones, it is considerably an overstatement to say the breasts "fill out to female size." They do develop somewhat, sometimes to an embarrassing degree, but not to the extent you state. And in men, just as in women, the breast size will vary considerably under such circumstances.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is enlarged prostate caused by excessive masturbation or intercourse? If so, should not our youth be frankly informed?—A.R.W.

Neither has any effect on prostate enlargement.

Tobacco Policy Mixed In U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States government spent $60,000,000 last year supporting tobacco crops and $4,500,000 on its campaign to get people to quit smoking.

"This is an example of the right hand not knowing what the left hand is doing," said Senator Frank Moss (Dem. Utah), a leader of the anti-smoking forces in Congress.

Senator John J. Williams (Rep. Del.) said he planned to introduce legislation in Congress in an effort to end tobacco subsidies.

"I think there are a lot of people who are aware of the absurdity of subsidizing the production of tobacco while we spend millions trying to stop smoking," Williams said.

Williams said government expenditures of $30,200,000 last year represented export subsidies of tobacco and direct loss from price-support operations. In addition, $31,000,000 worth of tobacco was disposed of as foreign aid.

Japanese forces occupied Manchuria in 1931 and Japan created a puppet state there in 1932.

Both Selected Missile States Opposed To Nixon's Safeguard

WASHINGTON (AP)—Governors of both states chosen by the Nixon administration as initial sites for anti-ballistic missiles have declared themselves opposed to the controversial Safeguard program.

The two Democrats, Forrest H. Anderson of Montana and William L. Guy of North Dakota, contend the short-term economic benefits of Safeguard sites in their states wouldn't be worth the long-term problems they could cause.

And they say they don't want their states to become nuclear junkyards.

One site is located at Malmstrom Air Force Base in Great Falls, Mont. The other proposed site is Grand Forks, N.D., Air Force Base. Both have Minuteman missiles which ABM supporters say would be protected by the Safeguard system.

Anderson gave his position in a statement inserted by Representative Arnold Olsen (Dem. Mont.) in Wednesday's Congressional record.

"I do not wish to see Montana become the nuclear ammunition dump—and later junkyard—of the United States," Anderson said.

"I have yet to find any scientific authority outside the industrial-military complex who can offer assurance the system will operate at all."

LONDON (CP) — Ever wanted to live in a country mansion set amid peaceful English parkland, with sturdy walls of aged mellowed stone, fringed with lush green ivy?

You can—for £1,000 ($2,600) down and a weekly rent of as little as £3 10 s (shillings) ($22.10)—as a member of the Mutual Homeholders Association. The recently formed non-profit-making organization is dedicated to preserving the stately homes of Britain by carefully converting picturesque manor houses and historic baronial seats into luxury apartments.

The primary aim is to protect these old houses from falling into disrepair and ruin, since few individuals can afford to keep them going as costs rise.

The association has bought nine aristocratic dwellings in Kent, Surrey and Devon and is negotiating for a further two. Each is split into about 20 apartments ranging from single rooms to more expensive suites which cost upwards of £25 ($65) a week.

OTTAWA REPORT

Let's Now Dissect Reply From Benson

By PATRICK NICHOLSON

Finance Minister Benson's reply to a justifiably disgruntled taxpayer in Port Arthur was recently published in Ottawa Report.

If Mr. Benson were to send a similar non-answer to all Liberal voters in his constituency of Kingston, Ont., guess who would be defeated in the next election?

Let's dissect that unsatisfactory reply, which invites any thinking taxpayer to tear it limb from limb.

First, Mr. Benson says that money must be collected from the taxpayers of Canada to provide services which Canadians want the government to provide. That is balderdash; successive governments, chiefly the Pearson Liberal government, have forced new and costly "services" down our throats without ever asking if we wanted them.

Then Mr. Benson lists some of these benefits and services whose cost, he claims, is rising. Old age pensions—these are not being increased as fast as inflation is eroding them. Benefits to veterans—what ever happened to the Woods Report, which recommended how many injustices to veterans could be corrected? That was published in February of last year, and the Liberal party has been so busy choosing a new leader and fighting an unnecessary election and emasculating Parliament that it just has not had time to bring our poor veterans into its Just Society.

JUNKETS FOR WIVES

Family allowances, Mr. Benson has forgotten, are still paid to teenagers at the same rate as when they were introduced one quarter of a century ago.

Air transportation facilities? Really, Mr. Benson, what air transportation facilities? and for whom? Not for the taxpayer surely! Not you know, Mr. Benson, that Air Canada has just reported its sixth annual profit in a row, and in fact has reported a profit in 15 of the past 18 years? So for whom are those air transportation facilities becoming more costly? Perhaps, Mr. Benson, you are referring to those junkets for wives of cabinet ministers, like Mrs. Pepin's trip to Japan with her husband, the Minister of Trade, Commerce and Industry. He is a good guy and an able minister, that Jean-Luc Pepin, but did Joe Blow's wife get a trip to Japan? Or is the reference to the wife of Justice Minister Turner, who went on a junket around the Arctic with her husband?

GIFTS FOR SUBVERSIVES

Then I note reference by Mr. Benson to rising defence costs; but I thought the de-NATO-ization policy of the Trudeau government was intended to cut costs? And finally, we come to some of Mr. Benson's thin ice: the cost of scientific research. That might be reduced if research grants were not given to subversives; not long ago we heard about a professor who got a grant to enable him to travel to Russia, where he lectured to Communist students at Leningrad University. I'm not surprised the angry taxpayer at Port Arthur demanded his money back on that one.

Finally Mr. Benson really shows how he thinks he can fool John Public. The money needed to provide these benefits goes up each year because of growth in the population and rising costs, he claims. Does nobody tell our finance minister about the multiplication factor relating to the yield from existing taxes?

A bigger population leads to a greater industrial output; rising costs mean rising prices; and these two factors expand our Gross National Product. But for each one per cent increase in GNP, the yield from existing taxes rises by 1.15 per cent, according to government economists. So why, Mr. Benson, do you have to increase taxes?

Guess who should be beaten at Kingston in the next election?

CANADA'S STORY

Mackenzie's Rough Trip Aimed At Pacific

By BOB BOWMAN

When Alexander Mackenzie became the first man to cross the North American continent by land, no American had been farther west than the Great Lakes. Mackenzie was a director of the aggressive North West Fur Trading Company which was looking for routes to the Pacific. His first venture in 1789 led to his discovery of the river that bears his name, but he was disappointed when it led to the Arctic and not to the Pacific.

Mackenzie realized that he needed to have a better knowledge of navigation, so he went to London and studied during the winter of 1791. Then he returned to Canada and spent the summer crossing the continent to the junction of the Peace and Smoky rivers which was to be his jumping-off place for the trip to the Pacific. He barely made it before the freeze up. In fact he was only at Lake Athabasca in October.

It was May 9, 1793, before spring flood waters had subsided enough for Mackenzie and his men to begin the hard task of getting their 25-foot canoe through the Rockies. Mackenzie had Alexander McKay as his assistant, six voyageurs, and two Indians as guides. They carried more than a ton of supplies and trading goods and sometimes had to portage 10 miles over rough country, hacking their way through the forests.

There was nearly a disaster when they shot the rapids in Bad River and their canoe was shattered. The voyageurs and Indians wanted to go back, but Mackenzie persuaded them to stay and somehow they patched up the canoe and went on. By June 17 they had crossed the great divide where the waters ran west, and thought their troubles were over. Little did they know of the dangers they would face before they saw the Pacific on July 22. That story will be told on the appropriate date.

Press Freedom Threatened Under Proposed Quebec Act

THE CANADIAN PRESS Freedom of the press would be in jeopardy if the Quebec government acts on a suggestion to issue permits to control ownership of news media, the national assembly was told.

The idea contained in a legal report being studied by the assembly's press committee was denounced by both Pierre Laporte, a Liberal and a former newspaper man, as well as by Premier Jacques Bertrand.

Mr. Laporte said the idea of issuing permits seems to be "absolutely abominable." He said if owners of news media had to approach the government for a permit, criticism of the government would cease because of fear that a permit would otherwise not be granted.

Mr. Bertrand said the idea of issuing permits "would be damaging" to freedom of the press. The press committee was set up after a member of the assembly complained that Paul Desmarais, a Montreal financier, exercised a monopoly over the press in Quebec.

Ives Michaud (L—Montreal) said Mr. Desmarais controls four French-language daily newspapers, five weeklies, four radio and two television stations.

The committee was told that negotiations had already started between owners of news media to establish a voluntary press council which would act as a watchdog to assure quality of reporting.

Mr. Bertrand said owners of news media and journalists should be praised for handling their affairs in such a way instead of "relying on intervention of the state."

In other legislatures: Yverdon—The legislature was told that Wilmer Nadiwon, an Ojibway Indian, resigned as president of the Union of Ontario Indians because he had no confidence in John Yaremko, the minister responsible for Indian development. Chief Nadiwon said Mr. Yaremko has been insincere in dealing with Indian problems.

Winnipeg—Agriculture Minister J. Douglas Watt said he has requested a meeting with H. A. Olson, federal agriculture minister, to discuss slow wheat sales. The legislature agreed to send a delegation to Ottawa "as soon as possible."

Edmonton—The second session of the Alberta legislature prorogued after a record budget was approved imposing additional corporate and personal income taxes and an increase in the tobacco tax. Treasurer Anders Aalborg presented a budget for record revenues of $945,199,000 with total expenditures of $979,312,000.

Minister Comes Under Fire For U.S. Deserters Policy

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition MPs grilled Immigration Minister Allan MacEachen for more than an hour today on his department's policy on admitting military deserters and draft dodgers.

David Lewis (NDP—York South) challenged Mr. MacEachen's interpretation of the discretionary powers given immigration officers to admit persons who do not meet the specific qualifications or to reject those who do.

He said regulations allow the officer to base his decision on whether he feels the prospective immigrant would be able to establish himself properly in Canada.

The minister's view that "legal contractual or moral obligations" of an applicant in his own country were adequate bases for restricting an immigrant, was "a misuse of the power the regulations give and an abuse of the English language."

DOESN'T AGREE

Robert Thompson (PC—Red Deer) took the opposite view. He held that the "contractual obligations" of an active serviceman from another country should be completed before immigration officers should even consider admitting him.

The minister was just "making things difficult for himself and blurring the reputation of the country by trying to be lenient where no leniency is called for."

Mr. MacEachen opened the Commons labor committee meeting with an hour-long review of the policies of the manpower and immigration department, followed by a separate statement on the policy regarding deserters and draft evaders.

He agreed that the present policy is causing problems and a complete study has been ordered. The minister explained that the "guidelines" issued to immigration officers last July required an immigration officer to submit an explanation in writing to his senior officer wherever he exercised his discretionary power to refuse or admit an applicant other than on the specific criteria.

During 1968 at U.S. border points the power was exercised in favor of 84 applicants and against only 11, Mr. MacEachen said. In overseas immigration offices the figures were 894 cases admitted and 137 rejected.

Mr. MacEachen said officers are not allowed to reject applicants without checking with their superiors. He had asked for information on any cases where that had happened. So far he had heard of only about 20 cases and he believed fewer than 10 would be valid complaints.

Mr. MacEachen said the situation is unsatisfactory because it places heavy responsibility on officers refusing applicants in what has been a sensitive issue.

Officers at border points or abroad could exercise discretionary powers, but officers in Canada could not. A military person or a draft dodger, once in Canada legally, could apply for landed immigrant status and the immigration officer could not consider his military status in making a ruling.

Mr. Thompson called the situation ridiculous. It is easy, he said, for any American to enter Canada to visit friends or relatives. Once in, he was free to apply for permission to stay. But another person, who made his intentions known at the border, could be refused.

The question of "draft dodgers" was not so important. But serving military personnel had a contractual obligation in their own country and should not be admitted except as political refugees.

OPINIONS DIFFER

Mr. MacEachen said there is a problem with two different views on the subject. There was a substantial body of opinion which held that a person who had reneged on obligations to his own country would not make a suitable citizen of a new country.

He could not regard a person from the U.S. as a political refugee.

David MacDonald (PC—Edmonton) challenged Mr. MacEachen's decision not to make public the July directive to immigration officers.

Mr. MacEachen said there is a long-standing tradition that instructions from one officer of a department to another are privileged documents, not for publication.

KINDERGARTEN BOSS

It's A Man's Job...

TORONTO (CP) — Don Mullin, 28, wipes noses, ties shoelaces and buttons up coats for 52 five-year-olds at St. Richard Catholic School.

"I think kindergarten is great," he said in an interview. "I like children, I like the work and I'm learning a lot."

Mr. Mullin, who believes he is Ontario's only male kindergarten teacher, will be principal of the new St. Victor Catholic school in the fall and says his kindergarten class is ideal experience.

He says the feminine influence in school is too strong. His boys and girls are beginning to read—but not from standard texts. He writes books for the girls about their favorite dolls and for the boys about baseball and car racing.

Girl Guide Camp Will Open June 7

Bert Sperling, chairman of the Camp Building Committee, has announced that the official opening of the new camp building will be held on the weekend of June 7. The official ceremonies will take place on the Saturday afternoon, while on Sunday there will be open house for all those interested to look over the camp and see what has been accomplished.

Mrs. A. Sperle and her committee are planning a fund-raising campaign to take place during Camp Week, which has been designated for the week prior to the official opening. More details will be announced later on this.

Oliver Jackson has created a large totem pole in a Thunderbird design which will enhance the wall in the camp building. There will be a space provided on the totem pole to show the names of those who have donated to the building fund during the two years it has been in progress.

Camp Arbuckle is located on Lake Okanagan four miles north of Okanagan Centre and covers four acres. It is named after Mrs. Ida Arbuckle, a tireless worker in the guide movement in Kelowna who conducted the successful drive for funds to purchase the property for camp purposes, with the co-operation of many local businessmen. This was about 25 years ago and throughout the years since that time many girls have been able to enjoy the benefits and fun of camping. The present building campaign has been to erect a new building and install up-to-date sanitary equipment so that others will be able to continue to enjoy the camp facilities.

Local service clubs and business firms have been most generous in their support of the building fund and many, many hours of volunteer labor have been spent by parents and supporters.

Watch for more details of official opening ceremonies and the fund raising campaign and plan to attend on the weekend of June 7 and 8.

ANN LANDERS

Honesty Needed To Enter Priesthood

Dear Ann Landers: I am 19 and have decided that in September I will enter the seminary to begin my study for the priesthood. I've thought about this for a long time and it's what I really want.

No problem? Not quite. Since August I've been dating a lovely girl. I love her, Ann, and I know she loves me. How do I tell her of my decision to become a priest? I've tried but nothing can make me say it.

I continue to date her—with lips sealed, I'd like to continue to date her until I leave for the seminary, and of course when I come home for vacations. Am I selfish? Have I really made up my mind?—Dilemma

Dear Dill: I consulted with a Catholic priest who said: The longer you put off telling the young lady of your plans, the less chance you have of becoming a priest. Furthermore, my consultants pointed out that you are not only selfish but dishonest. You want the enjoyment of the relationship but not the personal responsibility. The answer to your last question is emphatically no.

Dear Ann Landers: My sister is a wonderful gal but sometimes she acts as if she has the mind of a peanut. It's hard to believe she went to Wellesley.

Every week or ten days I get a letter from Sally. I wouldn't dare open the envelope in front of anyone because I never know what will fall out. She has written on brown paper sacks, salt cards and Unitarian Church bulletins (scrawled in heavy ink over the type). Yesterday I received an eight-page letter on paper toweling—the kind you find in a washroom.

I've never said a word about her kooky writing paper but maybe it's time I spoke up. Yes, or no?—Sick of Surprises

Dear S.O.S.: Sally probably enjoys an offbeat trademark and there's nothing wrong with it—but if it bugs you, send her some stationery. You can buy a big box at the dime store for less than a dollar.

Dear Ann Landers: You made a grave error and I hope you will be big enough to admit it. In replying to "St. Louis Woman" you said: "Diabetes is an illness." This is not true. Diabetes is the malfunction of the pancreas gland.

My grandson has diabetes and he is an excellent student and cannot be considered sick by any standard. Doctors will tell you that diabetes are usually more intelligent than others.

Please print this letter and set the record straight.

—Upholder of Accuracy.

Dear Up: Many people who have diabetes function extremely well and do not consider themselves sick. And this is good.

But by definition diabetes is an illness. There actually are two unrelated diseases with the name—diabetes mellitus, caused by the failure of the pancreas to produce insulin; and diabetes insipidus, which is related to a disorder of the central nervous system. The former disease is what is commonly meant by the term diabetes. As you say, thousands of people live happy, productive lives in spite of it, and I'm sure your grandson will do very well.

Surprise Shower Held For Two

A surprise shower was held recently for bride-elect Vikki Anderson and recent bride Mrs. Gary Bullock.

The shower was held at the home of Mrs. Richard Thomas, which was decorated for the occasion. The punch table was centred by a colorful sprinkling can and streamers.

Both girls were quite surprised when they received their pink and white carnation corsages, as each one was under the impression the shower was for the other.

Many lovely and useful gifts were received.

The shower was attended by friends and fellow workers.

The Spring Folk Arts Festival Has Been Cancelled This Year

The executive of the Kelowna Regional Folk Arts Council announce the cancellation of the fourth annual Folk Arts Festival which was to have been presented in the Kelowna Community Theatre this month. This council was formed in 1966 to encourage and promote practicing groups as a whole in a 'Festival' on the stage of our community theatre. Anyone interested in becoming a council member to assist in finalizing production of such a festival at some future date phone Mrs. C. E. Munslow, secretary, at 762-2327.

The popular Bavarian group is one of the groups which was encouraged by the council, when they reorganized in 1968 and are still a regional practicing group. All three festivals were successful and the grants and funds received in excess of expenditures were distributed to the participating groups and a sum is in trust for further festivals.

Talk On Drugs For Glenmore PTA

Drugs in the Home and Community is the theme of the program at the May 12 meeting of the Glenmore PTA starting at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. Presenting the topic will be Dr. D. A. Clarke, Kelowna's medical officer of health, and pharmacist, John Moxness. A new film will be shown to introduce the subject.

This program should be of considerable interest to parents and Glenmore PTA extends an open invitation to anyone outside the Glenmore area who would care to attend.

Sun Smiles For Fishing

By JIM TREADGOLD

WITH THE GOOD weather now with us sport fishing is picking up fast. The sport fisherman is becoming as active or more active than the fish.

A good many lakes are now fishable and a number have been producing well. It appears that all our mountain lakes will be open from their winter's ice cap by the long May 19 weekend. Roads into some of the mountain lakes will remain wet and muddy for some time yet as there is considerable snow water to drain from the high elevations yet.

Reports would indicate there is still five to seven feet of snow in the Greystokes, which could put Mission Creek to an extreme high in a few weeks.

BEAVER LAKE ice is not off yet but is expected to go soon. Road in is good. Dee Lake is also expected to be open by the long weekend and the snow has been graded off the road.

Bear Lake has been open for some time and with the good weather this week fishing should become quite active. The McCulloch lakes are open and a few anglers have tried Browne Lake, but have had to walk the last mile due to snow on the road.

Rose Valley Reservoir has been getting a fair play, but no big catches have been reported. Most of the Peachland lakes are open, but have not heard of anyone trying to get into Pennask Lake, no doubt the lake is open but it could be awhile before the road is passable. There has been talk of removing the rental boats at Pennask but it appears at this time that rentals will be here for this season anyway.

CONCERNING PENNASK LAKE, Stan Duggan, chairman of the Sport Fishing Committee of the Kelowna and District Fish and Game Club is organizing a work "bee" for a weekend early this summer on the last four miles of road to Pennask. This is a constructive idea and we should all get behind Stan on this as that last four miles of road is a terror at times.

Gravel rucks will be supplied and what is needed is manpower to spread the gravel. A day at this will greatly strengthen the arm muscles used in fly fishing, so when the call goes out let's see at least 100 fishermen turn out.

Some of the best producing lakes to date are Hidden Lake near Enderby, Pinaus Lake, Round Lake, Pillar Lake, White Lake near Blind Bay on the Shuswap also looks promising this season. Another spot that has got top rating by the Fishery Branch for this season is Tunkwa Lake south of Savona. According to the boys that should know this should be one of the best lakes due to the stocking program.

OKANAGAN LAKE has given up a number of good-sized trout during the past month and those that fish this lake consistently report fair to good success. With the warm weather here the Kokanee should start taking well on the Okanagan and Wood Lake.

The 1969 fishing regulations are now available and in force. I have not had an opportunity to go through them in detail, but there do not appear to be any changes in the regulations for the Okanagan district. Will make a special report on the new regulations next week, however would recommend all fishermen pick up a copy and read over.

Would much appreciate any reports on fishing and access to the various lakes all season, either in person or by phone. This information helps others to enjoy the best recreation there is—"Sport Fishing".

More Lights And More Cars In Store For Saturday Races

More lights and more cars are in store for the stock car racing fraternity at the Billy Foster Memorial Speedway Saturday night.

With the official season opener May 17 fast approaching, drivers and crews will use Saturday night's final practice session to get all systems operating to perfection for the serious stuff next weekend. After discovering they didn't have enough lights for night racing, members of the Okanagan Track Racing Association guarantee more for this Saturday.

And, there should be more cars, at least 18, compared with 14 for the first of two practice weekends last Saturday.

Late Rally Falls Short

Bruce Paige staged a fifth-inning rally but fell short Wednesday as they dropped a 9-8 decision to Midvalley in a Little League game played at Lions Park.

Bruce Paige scored seven runs in the fifth inning after being blanked for the first four innings by winning pitcher Doug Kenzie. They added another run in the sixth inning but a triple play by Midvalley ended the threat.

Cal Cooper and Ken Schisler provided Kenzie with most of the batting help he needed as both players stroked four hits in an equal number of trips to the plate. Cooper had a triple and a homer among his four hits.

David Lommer was the losing pitcher.

In Babe Ruth play Tuesday, Treadgolds and Firestones played to a 4-4 tie.

John Gerik pitched the first three innings for Firestones, Gerry Kielbiski finishing up. G. Neufeld went most of the way for the opposition, T. Henderson coming on in relief in the sixth inning.

Treadgolds managed to out-hit Firestones and forced them to fight from behind on two occasions. Treadgolds led 2-0 after three innings and 4-2 after the fifth.

Three bases on balls, a hit batter and a single by John Gerik tied the score.

Although most B modified drivers are aiming for the official opening, there were two Bs out last week (Sheeler and McNaughton) and there could be two more this weekend.

Pete (The Rebel) Smirl says he'll be ready for sure and Ab Funk hopes to be set. If not Funk will drive Dave Seath's modified stock for one more weekend.

CLOSING IN

Meanwhile, Lyle (The Viking) Hickson out of Vernon is closing in on Drew Kitch's all-time Foster Speedway winning record. Hickson picked up two checkered flags Saturday to run his win total to 53, only three behind the 56 racked up by Kitch in two years of competition. Kitch won 22 in 1967 and 34 last year, while Hickson took 14 checkered flags in 1967.

Rovers Still Undeclared After Year's Third Game

A seventh-inning rally kept alive the Rutland Rovers' undefeated streak Thursday in Kelowna and District Senior B Softball action at King's Stadium.

The Rovers pushed across three runs in the seventh inning to pull out a 4-3 victory over the Kelowna Carlings. Rutland had gone into the sixth inning trailing 3-0 but added one run in the sixth before salvaging the victory in the final inning.

Arnie Rath, who picked up Rutland's first victory on the opening day of the season, was also credited with the win Thursday. Rath took over from starter Ken Hehn in the middle frames.

The win was the third of the season for the Rovers who have yet to drop a decision, and moved them ahead of idle Vernon. Vernon has won two games, and like Rutland, has yet to lose a game this season.

The Carls scored all of their runs off Hehn in the third inning. Two singles and an error contributed to the rally, cut short by the Rovers just in time.

Mickey Kroschinsky and Gord Runzer sparked the Rutland attack, both slapping out key hits in the seventh inning off loser Don Schmidt.

There are no games scheduled until Sunday in the league. On that day, the Royals play the Carls and Vernon meets the Willows. In the league standings, the Rovers lead with three wins and no losses, Vernon is second with two wins and no losses, the Royals are third with one win and one loss, the Willows have two losses while the Carls are without a victory in three games.

By winning, Rath became the winningest pitcher in the league with a pair of victories and no losses.

Pitchers Continue Bad Time Under Baseball's New Rules

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The pitching mound isn't the only thing lower for most of the hurlers who helped make 1968 the year for pitchers in major league baseball. Their records also show a drop.

Of the top 10 pitchers in each league a year ago, only Juan Marichal of San Francisco Giants and Jim Nash of Oakland Athletics show an appreciably better earned-run average. Some ERAs are astronomical.

Houston and Philadelphia wreaked more hitting havoc Thursday, with the Astros defeating the Phillies 9-7 in the only scheduled game in either league.

Houston rallied for three runs in the eighth inning and three more in the ninth, wiping out a 7-3 Philadelphia lead and ruining a banner performance by Rich Allen, who walloped a grand-slam homer and singled in another run.

Houston fell behind despite a 3-0 lead on Joe Morgan's leadoff homer and a two-run shot by Jim Wynn in the third. But they closed in when Jesus Alou cracked a two-run double and Gary Geiger hit a sacrifice fly in the eighth.

Norm Miller began the decisive ninth against reliever Gary Wagner with a single and walks to Curt Blefary and Doug Rader loaded the bases with two out. Alou's infield single tied the score and John Edwards drilled a single to win it.

The pitchers on the other 22 teams had Thursday off to contemplate their woes. For example:

Cleveland Indians' Luis Tiant, a 21-game winner and the American League's ERA leader at 1.60 last year, shows an 0-6 record and 8.29 ERA. Team-mate Sam McDowell's ERA is up to 3.23 from 1.81 and it took two consecutive shutouts to get it that respectable.

Baltimore Orioles' Dave McNally has a 5-0 mark, but this ERA is up to 2.70 from 1.95. Denny McLain, Detroit Tigers' 31-game winner, is at 4-3 and 2.82, compared to 1.96 in 1968.

Tommy John of Chicago White Sox is up to 2.66 from 1.98. Stan Bahsen of New York Yankees—0-6 like Tiant—to 5.50 from 2.06. Joe Horlen of the White Sox to 3.60 from 2.37 and New York's Mel Stottlemyre and Oakland's John (Blue Moon) Odom to 2.64 from 2.84 from 2.45.

Nash, however, is down to 1.86 from 2.28 with a 3-1 record. Over in the National League, Bob Gibson of St. Louis Cardinals has a superb 1.94 ERA, but it was a record-setting 1.12 last season, when he spun 13 shutouts.

San Francisco's Bob Bolin is up to 4.75 from 1.98, Pittsburgh Pirates Bob Veale to 3.82 from 2.06, Jerry Koosman of New York Mets to 3.57 from 2.08 and Steve Blass of the Pirates to 6.82 from 2.13.

Buckaroos Lose Lavell

Clayton Lavell, who took over from Don Culley as coach of the Kelowna Buckaroos, early last season, is resigning from his position with the B.C. Junior Hockey League team.

Lavell said "business pressures" forced him to make the decision.

Buckaroo manager Scotty Angus said the Buckaroos were sorry to lose a man of Lavell's ability but will be looking forward to any help he could bring to the club next season. "Clay has said he will be happy to help in anyway he can," Angus said.

No probable successor has been named by the Buckaroos.

A Friend In Need Here Could Be Friend Indeed

QUESTION: We have been in the process of redecorating. The many coats of flat paint have come off doors and woodwork, which will be replaced by bright enamel. Our door in particular revealed quite a few dents, when all the coats of paint were removed. How can I fill them so the enamel will look smooth?

ANSWER: Get some of the painter's best friend, known as Spackle. Follow the simple mixing and working directions on the box, or get the newer, ready-mixed type; at any paint or hardware store; best dent smoother you'll ever see.

BALKY FAUCET

QUESTION: Our kitchen sink hot water faucet has developed the drips and whistles. What can I do, or is this a job for a plumber?

ANSWER: Judge for yourself, whether you're one of the millions of home repairers who can do this: Get a faucet repair kit at the hardware store and read the directions. All that's really required is loosening the nut which secures the faucet assembly, then drawing it all out. To prevent the wrench jaws from scratching, wrap them with a cloth or use cardboard. Remove the chewed up washer you'll find at the bottom of the stem. Then before you replace with a new one, smooth the circular platform, where the washer rests, known as the seat. Use a seat dressing tool for this. Then when you place a new washer on the smoothed seat, the faucet problems will disappear.

SIZE VENTS FOR CRAWL?

QUESTION: Is there any rule about the size louvered openings should be for a crawl space?

ANSWER: The minimum is usually considered one square foot of louver opening for every three hundred square feet of floor space. But frankly, larger openings are better, to assure adequate cross ventilation.

DON'T TRY RESTORING

QUESTION: Kindly advise what to do to restore a bathtub to its original color. My tub is dark and stained. I have used bleach and scouring powders and still cannot get it clean.

ANSWER: From your description, it's too far gone to attempt this often impossible job. Once that shiny surface wears down enough so stains can penetrate, you can never regain that showroom gleam. Use this tub until you can replace.

SEAL MAHOGANY

QUESTION: My front door was stained a dark gloomy mahogany. To get more light in the hall, I thoroughly cleaned and sanded the door. Then I put on a coat of enamel undercoat, followed by two coats of semi-gloss enamel. Now, after two months, it looks as though the mahogany stain will bleed through the door before long. What can be done?

ANSWER: Sand the enamel thoroughly. Then brush on a coat of aluminum paint, which is an excellent anti-stain shield. When dry, repaint with your enamel.

TOO MANY COATS

QUESTION: The paint on the kitchen woodwork has checked. It looks like an alligator's hide. In fact, I suspect that this is caused by a great number of coats. What can I use to remove all these coats, and could I do it next winter with the windows closed?

ANSWER: Use the most odorless paint remover the paint store carries, but frankly, you'll probably wish you'd done the job during open-window season.

NEW FINISH FOR FRIDGE

QUESTION: Our old but adequate refrigerator is chipped. Can I spray it with auto aerosol packaged finish? Could I change the color to brown?

ANSWER: Now you can get, at most paint and hardware stores, regular appliance enamels. They come in most colors of the rainbow, including brown.

MAINTENANCE FREE FLOOR
QUESTION: What type floor would be the most maintenance-free floor for the retirement home we plan to build?

ANSWER: Assuming you also mean comfortable underfoot, I'd vote for the resilient type with vinyl surface on fibreglass sheet.

Tobacco Companies Protest

TORONTO (CP) — Spokesmen for tobacco companies today protested against the CBC's decision to refuse advertising and sponsorship of its radio and television programs by tobacco firms.

Paul Pare, president of Imperial Tobacco Ltd., said he was surprised by the decision, announced Wednesday by CBC President George Davidson.

"We are being prejudged before having a chance to be heard," Mr. Pare said. Antonio Toledo, president of Benson and Hedges (Canada) Ltd., condemned the move as "unnecessary interference in lawful marketing," but added that almost all of his firm's TV advertising goes to the CTV network.

WILL HOLD HEARINGS
Tobacco-industry representatives are to appear next month before the Commons health committee, holding hearings on the smoking problem.

A spokesman for Macdonald Tobacco Inc. said his company is virtually unaffected by the CBC decision, since its only radio or TV advertising is a small weekly sponsored program on the east coast.

A spokesman for Rothmans of Pall Mall Canada Ltd. declined to comment.

Pollution Poser Posed

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The Great Lakes will become unfit for human use and devoid of many forms of fish life if the United States does not increase its efforts to halt pollution, a Canadian government official said here.

"I certainly think that abatement efforts on the U.S. side of the Great Lakes—particularly Lake Erie—have to be stepped up if the lakes aren't going to deteriorate to the point where they become expendable," said James P. Bruce, Great Lakes division chief of the department of energy, mines and resources.

He spoke at the Great Lakes research conference in Ann Arbor.

The U.S. discharges an extremely high percentage of the pollutants flowing daily in Lake Erie, Bruce said. In Lake Ontario, he added, more than half of the nutrients entering the lake from the Niagara River have been traced to American sources.

Canada recently stepped up its efforts to find ways to clean up Great Lakes water, he said, adding that they also have initiated a lake-wide monitoring program.

He said U.S. research efforts could possibly be better coordinated. Many agencies are trying to develop ways to halt pollution, he said.

"I have the impression that the policies are a little more fragmented here," he said.

Canada has begun construction of a $23,000,000 research centre to co-ordinate efforts of three agencies studying pollution problems, he said.

CHARTER SMILE is displayed by Doug Follett, right, as he received official Rutland Kinsmen Club charter from Kinsmen District Governor, Jon Glans, of Prince George. The event highlighted proceedings of the club's official status as a working arm of the Kinsmen cause. More than 190 Kinsmen, guests and fraternal dignitaries attended the function at the Aquatic, the hosts Kelowna Kinsmen Club. Percy Tinker, president of the Kelowna branch, was chairman of proceedings. (Al Ribelin Photo)

Cherry-Checked Kinsman Takes Step At Rutland

A cherry-checked Kinsman baby was born Saturday at the Aquatic, and took its first tottering steps under the fatherly coaching of charter president, Doug Follett.

Named the Rutland Kinsmen Club, the neophyte organization was conceived at special charter night ceremonies by the Kelowna Kinsmen Club, attended by 198 fraternal members and guests from the district.

Highlight of the evening was presentation of the Kinsmen charter by Kinsmen district governor, Jon Glans, of Prince George, to Mr. Follett, the club's first president. Ironically, he had been forced to give up an impending presidential post of the Langley Kinsmen Club due to transfer to Rutland, and surprise guests of the evening were Murray Brandow, current president of the Langley club.

Performed by Rob Towgood, of Summerland, installation of charter officers included Fred Fowler, vice president, Bob Bouchard, secretary, treasurer, Bob Fugger, registrar, Alf Tereposky, and directors, Morris Fiddocke, Barry James and Jim Macdonnell.

Charter members named were: Harold Voth, Floyd Grimes; Matt Boser, Stan Terai, Ron Kandt, Dick Callaghan, Glen Wood, Marvin Geen, Bill Neal, Dan Martel and Dave Silvester. Absent members included Ed Rankin, Fred Westwoul and Garry Rieger.

Part of the evening's program included presentations to the Rutland club by all branches present. In a reciprocal gesture, charter president, Doug Follett presented inscribed pens to district governor, Jon Glans, deputy governor, Rob Towgood, and Kelowna Kinsmen Club president, Percy Tinker, who served as chairman of the proceedings.

MORE HONORS

The honors were continued with presentation of scrolls for their work on the expansion committee in the formation of the Rutland club to Ray Busch, Bud Meckling, Nolan

Alcock And Brown Divided But Brown Made Air Race

LONDON (CP) — Alcock and Brown of Canada planned to get into the $156,000 international air race. Brown had to drop out but Alcock made it, possibly establishing a record of sorts.

"I think I got a record in travelling time between the Empire State Building in New York and the Kennedy International Airport," said Charles Alcock today. "But I lost time in travelling between Heathrow London Airport and the Post Office Tower."

Alcock, 43, is a Toronto native whose family lives in Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. He currently manages a section of a department store in Sudbury, Ont.

"When I heard about this air race, I got in touch with my friend Fred Brown, who is a commercial artist in Toronto, and we decided to enter as a team. But Fred had family problems and I decided to go into it on my own."

The two men have the same surnames as John Alcock and Arthur Whitten Brown whose transatlantic flight a half-century ago is commemorated by the big race.

Alcock said he is a distant relative of the original Alcock.

USED TAXIS

Alcock said he used a taxi for his run from the Empire State Building to the airport Wednesday night.

"We did it in just 24 minutes flat. What a taxi driver. I'm sure we broke all records for that run, including those who used motorcycles."

At the airport he boarded a commercial plane. The flight took six hours and 10 minutes.

But Alcock's secret plan for

P.Q. Teachers Still Off Jobs

QUEBEC (CP) — Negotiations in the Quebec province teachers strike enter their second day today in the wake of mass riotous demonstrations Thursday night in three Quebec towns.

The direct negotiations between representatives of the government and teachers unions were the first in two months.

Thursday night, about 1,500 teachers from the La St. Jean region marched through the streets of Chateaufort to protest delays in settling the dispute.

Similar marches took place in the north-shore communities of Baie Comeau and Sept Iles.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Space food may be more like everyday earth food if a man responsible for it has his way. Dr. Malcolm E. Smith, chief of the food and nutrition branch of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said he wants to give astronauts the common earth-type canned food. The spacemen think dehydrated space food now being used has a funny taste, he told the California Home Economics Association.

Glenn Hall First Player To All-Stars From West

MONTREAL (CP) — Glenn Hall, St. Louis Blues' veteran goaltender, today became the first player of the Western Division to be named to a National Hockey League official all-star team.

Results of the voting for 1968-69, performed at the conclusion of the regular 76-game schedule by three members of the NHL Writers' Association in each of the 12 league cities, were announced today by the NHL.

Hall, an all-star for the 11th time at 37, joins Bruins and Tim Horton of Toronto Maple Leafs, centre Phil Esposito of Boston, left-winger Bobby Hull of Chicago Black Hawks, and right-winger Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings on the first team.

Montreal Canadiens, who finished first in the Eastern Division and then defeated the Western Division champion Blues in the Stanley Cup final series, placed three players on the second team—defenceman Ted Harris, centre Jean Beliveau and right-winger Yvan Cournoyer. Goaltender Ed Giacomin of New York Rangers, defenceman Ted Green of Boston and left-winger Frank Mahovlich of Detroit complete the second team.

Following is a list of the first and second teams with the point totals. Voting was based on the system of five points for a first-place choice, three for second and one for third:

First team: Goal—Glenn Hall, St. Louis, 115; defence—Bobby Orr, Boston, 176; Tim Horton, Toronto, 123; centre—Phil Esposito, Boston, 174; right wing—Gordie Howe, Detroit, 174; left-winger—Bobby Hull, Chicago, 175.

Each member of the first team received $2,000 from the league and those elected to the second team each received $1,000. Thus, Beliveau led all players this season in total award money from the NHL with $11,500.

He received $9,750 as his share for Canadiens' finishing first in the Eastern Division and winning the Stanley Cup, plus another $750 as runner-up to Esposito in the Hart Trophy voting announced last month. The Hart award is to the player judged most valuable to his team.

Hall, who now has been named to seven first-all-star teams—a record for goaltenders—earned $11,250 in league bonuses.

The total included $8,250 as his share for the Blues first-place finish in the Western Division and their advancement to the Stanley Cup final series. His earnings also include $1,000 as his share after he combined with team-mate Jacques Plante to win the Vezina Trophy as the league's top netminders, including the pair's $250 in each half of the regular schedule when they were the leaders in fewest goals against.

Voting for the all-stars was closest in the goaltending ballot where Hall edged Giacomin by 13 points. Plante was third with 61 points.

Hall had previously gained all-star recognition while performing with Detroit and Chicago prior to the NHL's expansion to 12 teams last season.

NONE UNANIMOUS

The rest of the first team had wide margins over the runners-up, even though no player received a unanimous vote of 180 points. Orr was closest with 176.

Other than Hall, the strongest showings by Western Division players were at centre and defence and both were by St. Louis players. Red Berenson was third behind Esposito and Beliveau at centre with 43 points and Al Arbour finished fifth among defencemen with 52 points, five points more than sixth-place Jim Neilson of New York.

Third in the voting for right wing was Boston's Ken Hodge with 59 points, while Vic Hadfield of New York was third at left wing with 17 points, 91 fewer than Mahovlich.

Orr, Horton, Howe and Hull are all repeaters from the 1967-68 first team. Hall replaced Montreal's Lorne (Gump) Worley in goal, while Esposito ended the three-year reign of Chicago's Stan Mikits, who had been on either the first or second squad for the last seven seasons.

Giacomin is the only player from the 1967-68 second team to be named to the same position again, although Esposito was the centre last season in his first appearance as an all-star.

FIRST SELECTIONS

Those making their first appearance on an all-star team are Green, Harris and Cournoyer.

Howe's selection to the first team is his 11th such nomination, breaking the mark of 10 he shared with Doug Harvey, former defenceman with Montreal and New York and now with St. Louis.

It is also Howe's 14th consecutive first or second team—either the mark established by Montreal's former great right-winger, Maurice (Rocket) Richard. Howe long ago broke the record for total all-star selections. This is his 20th in 23 seasons.

A GOOD START

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP) — Rev. J. A. Davidson says romantic love is a good start but no guarantee of a successful marriage. Emotional intensity may lead to false judgments. Lasting compatibility is an achievement rather than an initial condition and doesn't come merely by the timid acquiescence of one partner.

Horton Sticks By Retirement

TORONTO (CP) — Even the winning of a berth on the National Hockey League's first all-star team won't keep veteran Tim Horton from retiring.

Informed today that he had won all-star recognition and the $2,000 that goes with it, the Toronto Maple Leafs defenceman said, "I appreciate it very much."

"It's a nice way to end my NHL career. I'm serious about that. I was serious when I first said I was retiring."

Horton, 39, came out of Cochrane, Ont., played his junior hockey with St. Michael's College in the Toronto organization and turned pro with Pittsburgh Hornets of the American League in the 1949-50 season.

He had a one-game try-out with Toronto and went back to Pittsburgh, moving up to the big club for good in 1951-52.

Horton was paired with Bobby Orr of Boston Bruins as the top defencemen in the all-star voting this year.

The muscular, crew-cut defenceman made his retirement announcement on the night Toronto bowed in four straight games to Boston in the Eastern Division semi-final.

Mounties Defeat Hawaii By Three-Run Outburst

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A three-run outburst in the fourth inning clinched a 5-3 Pacific Coast League baseball victory for Mounties over Hawaii Islanders at Vancouver Thursday night.

Rookie Don Hahn paced Mounties' attack with a double and a single in four trips at bat, driving in one run and scoring another.

Four hurlers were shuttled in during the late innings to protect rookie starter Bill Ferrell's third straight victory after he gave up a homer to Hawaii's Jim Spencer in the fifth. Islanders' starter Greg Washburn was awarded the loss.

The win preserved Vancouver's 2½-game lead over second place Tacoma in northern division standings. Cubs nipped Spokane Indians 2-1 at Spokane.

At Tucson, Phoenix Giants stopped Toros 9-7 when Leon Wagner belted a two-run pinch-hit double in the 10th inning.

The Emeralds downed the Beavers at Portland to keep a ties' attack with a double and a single in four trips at bat, driving in one run and scoring another.

Is Quebec Still 'Libre' After De Gaulle Departs?

PARIS (CP) — A cartoon in this week's issue of a French satirical newspaper shows Alain Poirer's butler at the presidential palace, passing on to France's interim chief of state a message telephoned from across the Atlantic.

"Monsieur le president," says the family-garbed aide, "it's Quebec asking whether it is still free."

Behind the cartoon is Le Canard Enchaîné, which poses the question of whether Poirer would go on with Charles de Gaulle's policy of pushing for greater Quebec rights if the quiet pillar of France's Democratic Centre party ever won election as regular president of the republic.

As of Wednesday night, Frenchmen still were awaiting his decision about entering the current race for the presidency. Questions about his policies if elected could be answered only through reference to Poirer's past record and to the style he has adopted since becoming interim president following the April 28 resignation of de Gaulle.

The style has proved to be a shrewd mixture of tranquility and such toughness as his dismissal from a top African affairs post of a leading Gaullist, Jacques Foccart.

Already Georges Pompidou, the candidate representing de Gaulle's party, is rounding out preparations for a potent campaign and is favored by many observers over a variety of leftist candidates.

But election experts predicted that Poirer, if he chose to run, could give Pompidou stout competition, especially in the event he won his way through the June 1 initial round and into a two-man second election June 15.

Elected president of the French Senate last year, Poirer helped set the stage for de Gaulle's defeat in the April 27 referendum with stinging attacks on the then-president's plans for re-organizing the upper house.

Subsequently, the 60-year-old Senate chief found himself a nationally-known personality in addition to assuming the interim presidency as part of his senatorial duties.

WANT A CHANGE

The gist of Poirer's predictions now is that, whoever wins the presidency, the French people want a change in at least the style with which their chief of state performs.

With Poirer, France would find itself represented by a man who, if his behavior in recent days is any indication, would spurn lofty or provocative gestures.

As interim president, he has emphasized "serenity" both in his general conduct of the office and in his carefully-calculated reaction to appeal from political allies to enter the election.

But he has coupled this with a sharp warning to the state broadcasting system, long alleged to have been obediently Gaullist, that news objectivity is essential, especially at election time.

And last week he dumped Jacques Foccart from the post of presidential secretary for African affairs.

DUTIES WERE BROAD

For year Foccart has been a key trouble-shooter for the general and included in his duties care for de Gaulle's personal security and general supervision of secret-service operations.

He "knows all the secrets of Gaullism and the state," said one Paris newspaper in reporting Foccart's fall.

French observers currently sound as though they regard foreign-policy strokes like de Gaulle's 1967 "Vive le Quebec libre" statement as definitely things of the past.

The Montreal speech and the alleged offensive by the general against the dollar came when de Gaulle was at the height of his power, writes commentator Andre Fontaine in Le Monde.

But now — whether the next French president is a Gaullist or "European" in the Poirer fashion — France is in for leadership infinitely more "bourgeois" than was the general, Fontaine adds.

Alberta's Rookie Chief Leads To New Costly Era

EDMONTON (CP) — Rookie Premier Harry Strom led Alberta into a new but more costly era during the second session of the 16th legislature which ended this week after a record 58-day sitting.

Mr. Strom, who took over the premiership from 25-year veteran E. C. Manning last fall, led the province into the federal medical care scheme, introduced social legislation, relaxed Sunday blue laws and paved the way for important taxation and education studies.

At the same time the 34-year-old Social Credit administration increased personal and corporate income taxes, levied a new tobacco tax and presented a record $979,000,000 budget coupled with its fourth-straight deficit, this time of $34,000,000.

The legislature sat 21 nights this year compared with 24 last year but put in seven morning sessions this year. There were no morning sittings last year. A record of more than 120 bills were considered compared with the previous high of 116 in 1968.

The major legislation was machinery for the province's entry into the medical care scheme July 1. It represented an abrupt about-face after the government announced in the Feb. 13 throne speech that Alberta would not enter the federal scheme in 1969.

Health Minister J. Donovan Ross told the house the province had failed in its long fight against the concept of universal and compulsory medical insurance and that he would relinquish his portfolio before the new scheme took effect.

Now that the session is ended, it is believed Premier Strom will devote more time to a cabinet shuffle. Five of the 14 cabinet ministers now are carrying dual portfolios and, during the session, they were the target of continued criticism from the 10-member opposition in the 65-seat house.

Sundays took on a new look under legislation which will allow hunting of big game in unsettled areas on Sunday and consumption of liquor with meals on Sunday and cultural and movie entertainment on a local option basis.

The loudest and most controversial debates centred on legislation to establish a semi-independent redistribution commission and on an act for municipal assessment and equalization.

The Redistribution Act evoked opposition cries of "gerrymandering" and that it was designed to juggle electoral boundaries to maintain the Social Credit majority in the next provincial election. The act calls on the commission to add 10 seats in urban areas which will make a total of 75 seats in the house.

Other social legislation saw provision for awards to victims of crime up to a total of $10,000. It was estimated this will cost the province up to $75,000 a year. The government also introduced a position paper on welfare as it changed the welfare department's name to the social development department. It emphasized the need for more social opportunity programs in the field and an end to the "handout" philosophy.

TIGHTEN WELFARE LAW

The government also moved to tighten legislation covering the maintenance and recovery of welfare funds. The legislation makes it an offence to receive funds under false pretences and makes unmarried parents responsible for the maintenance of their children.

A tougher line against drinking drivers was approved with new legislation allowing police officers to lift the licence of a suspected drinker for 24 hours and reinstating a mandatory six-month licence suspension for drivers being convicted of a first offence of impaired driving.

Another bill, described as a measure to reduce the provincial jail population by 20 per cent, removed public drunkenness as a criminal offence but allows police to take offenders into custody without charge for 24 hours or release them in the custody of friends.

U.K. Labor Leaders Urged Retreat On Strike Policy

LONDON (Reuters) — Pressure is mounting on the Labor government to pull back from a head-on collision with British labor unions over plans to curb strikes.

At stake in the growing political crisis could be Harold Wilson's position as prime minister and the survival of his government.

But chances appeared to be increasing that the government would settle for a face-saving compromise and allow the unions to set up self-control measures instead of the legislation planned by the government.

A compromise would avoid a humiliating total surrender by the government to the unions and rebellious members of Parliament. But it would still be a retreat from a commitment to curb wildcat strikes and delay stoppages that threaten the economy.

The unions, traditional power base of British socialism, are strongly opposed to proposed penalties for wildcat strikers. Many Labor members of Parliament support them.

Wilson has threatened that if a bill to reform the unions is blocked in the House of Commons he will dissolve Parliament and call a general election — the result of which, all opinion surveys agree, would be a huge victory for the Opposition Conservative party.

Douglas Houghton, spokesman for the ordinary members of Parliament who could end Wilson's government with a major rebellion, virtually wrote the death warrant of the anti-strike legislation Wednesday night.

He said that the bill would not be passed by the House of Commons unless penalties for wildcat strikes are dropped from its provisions.

Aviation Group Ponders How To Get 500 Out Alive

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — How can 500 persons get out of a burning airplane on the runway in 90 seconds?

By sliding down poles like firemen, perhaps.

The pole escape technique for those who ride the jumbo jets now under construction was demonstrated by U.S. Federal Aviation Administration officials Wednesday for the annual meeting of the Aerospace Medical Association.

Over closed-circuit television from a gymnasium across town, scientists and doctors saw a telescoping steel pole swing out from a simulated airplane hatch and extend to the ground.

Ten soldiers wrapped their arms around the pole and slid down in the manner of firemen.

FASTER THAN CHUTES

Dr. Stanley R. Mohler of FAA's office of aviation medicine said the experimental device, called "telescope," is far faster than the inflatable chutes carried on today's airliners for quick evacuation of planes on the ground.

Other safety devices demonstrated included: —Survival gear for infants in case of an emergency ditching at sea. The rig consists of a waterproof body stocking suspended from a hooded circular life buoy in which the infant is placed prior to ditching. The stocking is black—a color FAA experts said repels sharks—and is insulated against the cold of northern waters.

—A transparent plastic bag for passengers to slip over their heads if smoke gets into the cabin area. A small canister of oxygen inside the bag will last several minutes until the smoke can be vented through the air conditioning system.

Armed Forces Chiefs Change

OTTAWA (CP) — Maj.-Gen. Gilles A. Turcot, 51, will be promoted to lieutenant-general and will succeed Lt.-Gen. W. A. B. Anderson as head of the Canadian Armed Forces mobile force, the defence department announced today. Gen. Anderson, 54, is retiring this summer after 33 years service.

Gen. Turcot, of Quebec City, will be promoted effective Aug. 8 and take over as commander of the mobile force then. He has been deputy commander of the force since last February.

Gen. Anderson started his military career in 1936 and was commissioned a lieutenant in the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery in that year.

He served overseas during the Second World War and held a number of peacetime commands before becoming commander of mobile force.

Viet Cong Apply Squeeze To 'Soften Up' Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong's high command has called for a summer offensive in South Vietnam to force the Saigon regime to agree to a coalition government and compel the United States to withdraw troops from the country, says a captured document made public today.

The U.S. mission said the document was issued by the central office for South Vietnam, the Viet Cong's supreme headquarters.

"The importance of the summer offensive should be clearly pointed out," the document said. "It is a very important phase intended to compel the enemy . . . to accept serious negotiations, to recognize the National Liberation Front, and to accept a coalition government."

The National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, put forward a 10-point negotiations with us, to withdraw peace program at the Paris talks Thursday. It included a coalition government and withdrawal of all American forces.

LISTS REQUIREMENTS

The Viet Cong document made public in Saigon outlined these requirements for the summer offensive:

—It must be more aggressive, stronger and more painful to the Americans and the South Vietnamese than the spring offensive launched Feb. 23.

—It must succeed in destroying, wearing down, and disintegrating more American potential, more main-force South Vietnamese troops, and especially more South Vietnamese village and hamlet officials.

—It must destroy large amounts of war materials and supply facilities.

The document also called for incitement of a general uprising among the population, and "liberation of hamlets and wards when the situation is favorable."

Meanwhile, informed sources said the U.S. Command has received no orders from Washington to scale down offensive operations.

Military sources said about 1,000 combined forces companies of 100 to 200 men each are making thousands of patrols each day seeking to destroy Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops, bases and supplies.

"We have no instructions to lower offensive operations in order to reduce casualties," one source said.

MUSEUM NOTES

Lovely Results Of Rock Hunting

By PRIMROSE UPTON

Rockhounding is one of the fastest growing hobbies—and well it might be. Usually the whole family gets involved—expeditions are taken out into the country, and the hunt begins. Equipped with a knapsack or bag, a hammer, magnifying glass, cold chisel and probably a book on rocks, you are off into a new adventure where you see new country, explore exciting rock formations, and en route are always assimilating new knowledge.

Then of course there is the thrill of cutting some of the rocks when you have them at home. Not too many people have this equipment in their own homes, but there are many rock clubs all over the Province. If you join one of these you will probably have the use of their equipment, as well as going on many field trips.

The results of rockhounding by the 1120 Rock Club of Kelowna are now on display in the Centennial Museum—and fascinating and beautiful results they are. Some of the stones have been cut and polished, others have been tumbled, and a great many of them have been mounted on lovely settings. Mauve amethysts, green jade and nephrite, black jasper, pinkish rhodonite, petrified wood, quartz—all are on display. Some are set up showing the raw rock, the cut rock, and the polished and finished article.

Along with rockhounding, collecting ancient bottles seems to go as a natural adjunct. There are purple bottles, green, brown and amber bottles, along with drawing showing how some of the bottles were blown or moulded.

Plastics encase interesting stones and shells.

For those interested in fossils and dinosaur bones, there are several specimens intact, as well as some polished and mounted pieces. A lovely branch of driftwood is mounted as a "conservation piece."

This display will be shown until the end of May. Next week we'll tell you about the newly arrived display of meteorites.

Eiffel Tower Reaches 80

PARIS (Reuters) — The Eiffel Tower, trade mark of Paris and 80 years old Tuesday, is proving more popular with tourists every year.

Building of the famous tower was completed March 31, 1889, by a team under architect Jules Eiffel, and officially inaugurated five weeks later at the Paris International exhibition for which it was built.

The tower, including the TV antenna, is the tallest structure in Europe at 1,056 feet.

During the 1889 exhibition the tower, which was built with three elevators, was visited by 1,896,987 persons, a figure which was not surpassed until 1963. In the year following the exhibition the figure dropped to 400,000.

VISITORS INCREASE

Between 1900 and 1910 the figure stayed below the 200,000 mark, and did not break the 1,000,000 barrier again until as late as 1947. But since then there has been a steady climb. And in 1964, the 75th anniversary year of the tower's construction, it was visited by nearly 2,200,000 persons.

No official celebration was planned to mark the tower's 80th birthday, other than a press cocktail party.

Following its inauguration, the Eiffel Tower served no practical purpose other than acting as a landmark. But today it fulfils three main functions—as a radio transmitting station, as a television mast, and as a guideline for aviation.

To date 351 persons have committed suicide by throwing themselves from the tower.

Many Top Quebec Teachers Seek Jobs In Other Places

MONTREAL (CP) — After 22 months of fruitless contract negotiations, many of the best qualified and most experienced of Quebec's teachers are looking for jobs in other provinces.

"I know a great many who are leaving, and many more still on the fence," Dr. Allana Reid-Smith, president of the 6,000-member Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers, said in an interview.

"But the numbers don't worry me—it's the calibre. In all cases it's the people who aren't afraid to try something new, the people with courage and a sense of adventure."

"These are the people we need most to build up our own system."

Donald Peacock, head of the Montreal Teachers Association, representing about 2,700 Montreal-area Protestant teachers, said the number of resignations in the Protestant system this year is about 500—"more or less the same" as in any other year.

But, he added, "there is a qualitative difference. The number of better qualified, senior, high school teachers has gone up. They are moving to Ontario and other provinces."

He added, however, that if a satisfactory settlement is not reached before May 31, the over-all number of resignations would also increase.

Either way the quality of teaching will go down, he said.

MAY STATE POSITIONS

In the national assembly Thursday night there was unanimous agreement to have representatives of the parties involved in the contract dispute state their positions to the assembly's executive council committee.

Speakers for the 70,000 teachers, the school boards and the Quebec government are scheduled to meet with the committee next Tuesday.

Premier Jean-Jacques Bertrand said it was the assembly's duty to have the three groups explain themselves.

However, Protestant teachers have reached a separate agreement with their board, and Montreal's English-speaking Catholic teachers have said they will accept a 1968 contract with the salary modifications already satisfactorily negotiated.

The government, on the other hand, has refused to consider regional settlements.

The situation has led to stalemate, a series of rotating strikes in January and unsuccessful mediation under Judge Rene Lippe in February. Recently, various teacher groups have held a series of one-day warning strikes.

The 60,000-member Quebec Teachers Corporation, representing most of the province's French-speaking Catholic teachers, has said that 40 to 75 per cent of its membership will resign if a settlement is not reached before May 31, the date when teachers must tender resignations or be bound to another year.

TOURISTS INCREASE
TOKYO (AP) — The justice ministry announced that 418,522 foreigners, mostly tourists, visited Japan in 1968—an increase of 42,593 over 1967. The figure was double that of 1962, the ministry said.

Tolls On Seaway Studied In Order To Avoid Raise

WASHINGTON (CP) — Representative Henry S. Reuss outlined Thursday legislation to ensure the solvency of the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corp. of the United States and eliminate "any foreseeable need for increasing seaway toll rates."

The Wisconsin Democrat is co-sponsoring the bill with 11 other members of the House of Representatives. It would remove the legal requirement that the seaway pay off its initial construction cost in 50 years' time.

Instead, the seaway corporation's present $148,000,000 debt to the U.S. treasury would be converted to a permanent U.S. investment, with the treasury receiving in dividends the same amount it now receives from the corporation in annual interest payments. The same bill was introduced in 1966 and 1967. It died both years without any action being taken.

The corporation and the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority in Canada, the two operating authorities, are scheduled to make a joint policy recommendation to their governments after separate toll hearings in their respective countries.

In Canada, inland ship-owners have begun a campaign against any increase in tolls, the issue boiling down to whether the seaway costs should be met by the taxpayers or by the people directly using the waterway.

In 1967, the U.S. declined to agree to tolls increase of 10 percent but gave Canada a bigger slice of the tolls revenue—73 percent instead of 71. Canada also began a phased-in lockage fee on the Welland Canal that will rise to $100 in 1971.

"In the next four shipping seasons the seaway corporation, after paying operating and maintenance costs, is likely to fail to pay $2,000,000 in interest on its outstanding indebtedness," Reuss said. "It will, moreover, be unable to make any repayment of the $19,000,000 bond indebtedness, either in the next four years or in the foreseeable future."

Thus, he said, it is necessary "once and for all to come to grips with the gloomy reality which is the seaway corporation's financial statement."

Some People With New Hearts Sometimes Pay By Losing Minds

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Some people receiving new hearts have paid by losing their minds, a psychiatrist reported today.

They became psychotic or mentally ill after heart transplant surgery. Others have developed curious psychological reactions.

This new aspect to the borrowing of human hearts was described to a convention of the American Psychiatric Association by Dr. Donald T. Lunde, psychiatric consultant to the heart transplant team at Stanford University Medical Center.

He said five of 13 persons receiving hearts at Stanford became psychotic soon after surgery. Three have died, including one who was mentally disturbed from the day of the operation.

Three other persons exhibited at least temporary emotional upsets, Dr. Lunde said. One suffered from depression, the others from disturbances in mood and thinking.

In addition, a man who received a woman's heart wondered whether he would lose his masculinity. But he comforted himself with the thought that women are less likely to develop coronary heart disease.

A man in his 40s who received the heart of a 20-year-old felt that he now was young, born again.

A man who learned he had been given the heart of a prominent citizen confided that he felt an obligation to live up to standards set by the donor.

Dr. Lunde said Stanford established a policy of keeping secret the identities of donors so that recipients would not learn them from press reports.

The people who become seriously psychotic suffered from paranoia and delusions, Dr. Lunde said.

One man suspected that the drug used to suppress the body's rejection mechanism against borrowed organs was a poison.

THOUGHT THEY MOCKED

He thought the nurses and doctors wore masks to hide contemptuous, mocking expressions.

One reason for psychological reactions in heart recipients is that they know the rejection mechanism may set in and become lethal, Dr. Lunde said.

TREAT CROSS EYES

LACHUTE, Que. (CP) — Claude Maurice, district manager for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, says children born with crossed eyes who are left untreated will never experience depth perception. This inability to determine the relative position of objects in space prevents them, in later life, from doing hazardous jobs or participating in sports with ease.

BIDDING QUIZ

You are South, both sides vulnerable, and have the following hand:

♠ K10985 ♥ 763 ♦ A103 ♣ J21

1. North bids One Diamond, you respond One Spade, and North bids Three Diamonds. What would you bid now?

2. North bids One Club, you respond One Spade, and North bids Three Clubs. What would you bid now?

3. West bids One Notrump (16 to 18 points), North doubles, and East passes. What would you bid now?

4. North bids One Spade and East doubles. What would you bid now?

5. North bids One Heart, you respond One Spade, and North bids Two Spades. What would you bid now?

1. Four diamonds. The jump to three diamonds is not forcing—it is merely invitational—but you should respect it in this case because you have a better hand than you might have had for the spade response. The only real problem is whether to raise diamonds or bid spades again to show a 5-card suit. It is better to bid four diamonds, which has the incidental advantage of allowing partner to show secondary support for spades, if he has three of them. A threespade bid at this point would suggest a better suit, but, more important than that, it would suppress the diamond support North is entitled to know about.

2. Three diamonds. Again you respect North's jump bid, but this time your most constructive move is to bid a suit that, strictly speaking, is non-biddable. Its chief purpose is to enable partner to bid three notrump, with the appropriate heart strength. At the same time, the three diamond bid leaves room for North to show belated spade support.

3. Pass. North shows the same strength as West by his double, and it is therefore clear that West is bound to fail at one notrump doubled by several tricks. The pass is consequently clearly indicated.

4. Three spades. The jump raise to three over the double is purely preemptive and by no means forcing. Normally it shows five trumps and 5 to 8 points in high cards, but the strength may vary, depending upon distribution.

5. Pass. The winning bid is a pass, although, theoretically, partner may have a hand good for ten tricks. In most deals you will make only eight or nine tricks, and it is simply not worth jeopardizing the part score by bidding again. Including his distributional values, North, on an average, will have 14 or 15 points for his raise—and this prospect is too unattractive to justify a further try for game.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

Stellar influences continue to be friendly toward job and/or business matters. This will be an excellent period in which to gain the favor of superiors; also to make new contacts who could help you to further worthwhile aims.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates some challenging business and/or job situations during the next few months. Certain changes in work matters—especially if you are engaged in artistic or scientific pursuits of any kind—can, with the Taurus's foresight and intuition, be turned to your advantage and, by the end of 1969, you should find yourself not only in far better position than you may be in at the moment, but ready to move forward at a still more progressive pace early in 1970. For all born under this sign, however, best opportunities for occupational advancement will occur in mid-June, throughout July, August and September; in the weeks between Oct. 10 and Nov. 9, and from mid-January through mid-March.

There's little indication that the next six months will bring much change in your financial status, but that is not discouraged. Stars say that this will be a period for planning and working out programs for expansion along these lines and if you do so, with your innate wisdom and foresight, you could, more than likely, achieve fine results during the first three weeks of December, to be followed by a truly splendid follow-up period beginning on Feb. 1. Do avoid speculation, however—especially in early June and between July 1 and Sept. 21.

Personal matters will be governed by generally good influences during the year ahead, with romance especially favored in June, September, late December, January and/or next April. Most auspicious periods for travel and social activities: Late June, the first three weeks of July, the entire month of August, the first half of October, the latter half of December and next February.

A child born on this day will be endowed with a fine mind and unusual creative ability, but may have to curb a tendency toward extreme stubbornness.

Rutland's May Day Plans Take Steps To Completion

RUTLAND (Special) — The Rutland May Day Committee meeting at the Rutland Community Centre Tuesday under the chairmanship of Hugh Fitzpatrick, reviewed progress to date and took steps to complete plans for the big weekend celebrations.

Arrangements for the parade were discussed, and a new assembly arrangement agreed to, with the floats lining up on McCurdy Road this year, and proceeding from there to the park.

Instead of two entrance gates on the Rutland Road it is planned to have a second gate on McIntosh Road to the west of the fire hall. Bands, it appeared, were an unsolved problem, the possibility being that the local school band would not be available as the bandmaster would be away. Special efforts will be made by the committee to obtain, if possible, two bands to participate. Art Harrop is in charge of this, and the parade plans are the responsibility of Don Volk.

Rudy Runzer, reporting on plans for the big softball tournament, had only one complaint, he had more entries from Coast teams than he needed. In any case there will be the usual big tournament, with some snappy ball for the spectators all through the weekend.

The horseshoe pitching contest will again have a place in the program, with Paul Bach handling the arrangements. Requests were received for Little League and Babe Ruth tournaments to be included in the program came from the Minor Baseball Association, and these will be included in the agenda.

A suggestion that a "hardball" game to be included also, for some of the old time ball players, was considered, but doubt was expressed that time could be found to include it, but the matter was not finally decided.

The pet parade of other years, which consisted of contestants merely presenting their pets for inspection in a circular enclosure, has been expanded to a "youth parade" to be held on the Sunday afternoon, with prizes for youth groups entering in the parade, which will be headed by a band and proceed from the school grounds to the park. The judging of the pets will take place there after the parade.

Plans for the big dance in the Centennial Hall that usually is the grand wind-up of the celebrations, are not yet complete. A suggestion that the committee bring in the Bavarian Band from Westaskiwini Alta., was acted upon, and the manager of their organization was phoned long distance, during the course of the meeting, by Rudy Runzer, and the proposition made. The famous band group will advise within two days if they will be able to make the trip. They travel by special bus, and if they can come here for the occasion will take part in the parade and also give a band concert.

B.C. Seeking Ottawa Aid For Trail

TRAIL (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett has asked Ottawa aid to victims of the flood last month in this West Kootenay smelter city.

After arriving for a personal look at the flood damage, the premier sent a telegram to Prime Minister Trudeau seeking a federal payment of 40 per cent of the damage.

The telegram said: "I am in Trail, B.C. personally inspecting damage of flood and find it greater than damage caused by tidal wave at Alberni, B.C., where federal and provincial government shared the cost. Recommend that our government share damage at Trail 60 per cent provincial and 40 per cent federal. Kindest personal regards, W. A. C. Bennett, premier of B.C."

The premier inspected much of the 15-block area hit by flood waters April 23 and told reporters he was displeased by reports attributed to Works Minister Arthur Laing, Vancouver South MP and a former B.C. Liberal leader.

Mr. Laing was quoted as saying the flood damage is within the means of the provincial government to meet. Mr. Bennett said that if Mr. Laing had been accurately quoted, "then he is a minister against B.C. and I call upon the prime minister to accept his resignation forthwith."

GRAPE GROWERS

Established B.C. company requires all types of grapes; will pay market price for all varieties; interested growers should write outlining acreage, estimated tonnage, present and future potential of varieties.

Annual Bursary Presentation Arranged At Peachland Legion

PEACHLAND (Special) — The branch 69 annual $100 bursary given each year to a veteran's son or daughter graduating from the George Pringle Secondary School, Westbank, was arranged at the regular meeting of branch 69 Royal Canadian Legion, Monday, L. G. Bawden, vice-president was in the chair. Service officer Harold Thwaite will visit the school and make arrangements for this bursary as well as leave application forms for provincial command bursaries.

Attending this meeting were three of branch 69 ladies auxiliary members to discuss and make plans for Legion participation in the community May Day celebrations May 24. Queen candidate representing the Legion will be Kathy MacKinnon, 14-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John MacKinnon of Trepanier. Arrangements were made for a decorated car to be entered in the parade and work parties set up to look after the booths on the school grounds.

A letter was read from branch member C. C. Houghtaling, who lives in Chase, sending his membership dues and good wishes to the branch and members.

A membership report was given by the chairman J. R. Davies. To date there are only four cards not picked up by members. Chuck Barnard, membership chairman for Westbank was not in attendance so no report was given from that area.

Harold Thwaite, service officer, gave his monthly report. One member has died, G. Lovelidge and representatives attended the funeral. Mr. Thwaite also reported that Bill Selwyn of Vernon Road was home again from Shaughnessy and looking much better.

A request was received from the newly-formed Peachland Westbank Teen Town to use the legion hall for meetings. This permission was granted for the summer months, with the stipulation that the hall be left in good condition.

An executive meeting will be held in the hall on May 21 at 8 p.m. and a work party held to clean the lot on Thursday at 7 p.m. this week, all volunteers welcome.

Guides Planning Candy, Bake Sale

LAKEVIEW HEIGHTS (Special) — The first Girl Guide Company of Lakeview Heights is having an entertainment, candy and bake sale in the Lakeview Heights Women's Institute Hall on Friday evening from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

There will be musical selections, dramatization and singing by the Guides and Brownies. Proceeds from this entertainment will go to Camp Arbutus. Each Guide is asked to earn a dollar for this project and it was felt that an entertainment would be a good way to raise the money. It is hoped there will be a good turn out in support of these enthusiastic guides and brownies.

Social Whirl At Peachland

PEACHLAND (Special) — A wedding of interest, to Peachland, took place in Summerland on April 26 when Mary Lamb of Pentecost, daughter of Mrs. K. Kotola of Trepanier, became the bride of Harold Domi of Pentecost, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kurt Domi of Peachland. The couple chose to have a square dance wedding which was held at the Summerland Youth Centre.

Out of the district guests at this wedding were Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Rye of Huntsville, Ont., uncle and aunt of the bridegroom, who were guests of Kurt Domi's that week. They have since returned home to Ontario.

Home visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Milt Araki on 12th Street is Lillian Araki who has been attending first year university.

Visiting the community last weekend was former resident, Mrs. Jack Maylor who dropped in to see old friends.

Mareen Todd is home again after completing her third year studies at Notre Dame University in Nelson.

7:30 p.m.—Green Acres (c). Guess Who's Not Coming to the Luau — Lisa and Oliver Douglas, and most everyone else in Hooterville, wait excitedly for the televised results of a national contest in which they're all entered.
9 p.m.—Bonanza (c) A Ride in the Sun—Three bank robbers involve the Cartwrights in a robbery and then attempt to escape into the desert, pursued by Little Joe. Robert Hogan, Anthony Zerbe and Marj Dugas are guest stars.
11:20 p.m.—Sunday Cinema "Claudia" — Starring Dorothy

McGuire, Robert Young, Ina Claire and Gail Patrick. The delightful story of a young married couple and the courage they display when they learn that mother is dying. Based on Rose Franken's novel and play.

MONDAY, MAY 12

7 p.m.—Klahanie.
7:30 p.m.—The Doris Day Show (c) Love A Duck — Doris Martin tries to trap a poacher who is shooting birds on her father's ranch.
8 p.m.—Show of the Week (c) Ballads of a Blind Man: Humor, pathos, nostalgia, compassion for mankind—this is the world of Pete Seeger, who has been called "the real father of the folk music movement which is such an integral part of America in the 1960s" (New York Times, April 1967). The world's most famous living folksinger came to Canada recently to tape his first North American one-man television hour. It's a warm, witty and friendly hour of songs, anecdotes and reminiscences of musicians, ordinary people and places Seeger has known since the days of the late forties when he and The Weavers started the whole modern folk music revival.
9:30 p.m.—Carol Burnett Show (c) Carol's special guests are actor-singer Vince Edwards and Chita Rivera.

L.A. Times Wins Again

NEW YORK (AP) — For the third time in 27 years the Los Angeles Times has won a Pulitzer Prize for public service.

The 1969 award, announced Monday, was for an expose of corruption which led to a shakeup of the Los Angeles city government and three convictions for bribery.

William Tuohy, 43, a Los Angeles Times correspondent, won the prize in international reporting for combat coverage of Vietnam—bringing the newspaper's total of Pulitzers through the years to seven, including three since 1966.

The prize for news photography went to Edward T. Adams, 35, of The Associated Press for his picture of Brig.-Gen. Nguen Ngoc Loan, the South Vietnamese national police chief, shooting a Viet Cong captive in the head with a pistol. It was the 23rd Pulitzer Prize for Associated Press staffers.

The fiction prize was won by N. Scott Momaday, 35, a Kiowa Indian, for his book House Made of Dawn. Momaday is the first known member of his race to win a Pulitzer.

Playwright Howard Sackler, 39, won the drama prize for his Broadway play The Great White Hope, based on the life of one-time heavyweight boxing champion Jack Johnson.

Norman Mailer, previously best known for his novel The Naked and the Dead, shared honors in the general non-fiction category with Dr. Rene Jules Dubos, Rockefeller University microbiologist. Mailer was honored for The Armies of the Night and Dubos for So Human an Animal.

Pulitzer winners are selected by the trustees of Columbia University with the help of an advisory board. The annual prizes, first awarded in 1917, were established in the will of Joseph Pulitzer, founder of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and later publisher of the New York World.

New Magazine Covers Art

TORONTO (CP) — Art Magazine, a new quarterly published by the Society of Canadian Artists in Toronto, went on sale this week with its cover devoted to a photograph of the new art gallery in Edmonton.

The 24-page format is the responsibility of an editorial board of SCA painters and writers including Gloria Smedmor, a poetry editor, Walter Engel, resident critic, Colleen Shannon, assistant editor and Charles Butlin, treasurer.

Swingingest Movie Of This Spring Made By Man Long Out Of Practice

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The swingingest movie of the spring season was made by a member of Hollywood's Old Wave—Garson Kanin, a man who hadn't directed a picture in almost 30 years.

Where it's At is a sexy view of America's Babylon, Las Vegas, as seen from the youthful side of the generation gap. It concerns an unscrupled gambling boss—David Janssen—who meets his match in his own son—Robert Drivas. Las Vegas and its chrome-plated values have never been treated so unsparingly as they are by director-writer Kanin, who candidly confesses he hates the place.

The new Kanin film is filled with bright directorial touches and it may amaze some movie students to learn that his last movie was Tom, Dick and Harry, a 1941 comedy with Ginger Rogers, Burgess Meredith, Alan Marshall and George Murphy.

EXPLAINS LAPSE

Why the long lapse between pictures?

"All of us get the impression that people can order their lives the way they choose," replied Kanin.

"That simply isn't so. All of us are subject to the accidents of circumstance. If it hadn't been for the war, I might have remained a film director throughout my life. But I happened to have been drafted into the army, and that changed the course of my career.

"I was drafted even before the war, and I found myself sitting around barracks with nothing to do. I was 26 to 27, and the creative juices were flowing. Since I couldn't direct, I started to write. I had never written before, and I found I enjoyed it.

"When the war was over, I had a play which I had written, Born Yesterday, Ruth (Gordon, his Oscar-winning wife) also had a play, Years Ago, about her childhood. And Robert Sherwood had a play, The Rugged Path, which he wanted me to direct with Spencer Tracy. So my career then centred in the theatre."

"I guess I was spoiled in the theatre, where the Dramatist Guild protects the author against tampering with his work," said Kanin. "I simply wouldn't go back to pictures until I could have the same kind of freedom."

Producer Frank Ross provided such freedom with Where It's At, as did the Mirisch Brothers with another United Artists film Some Kind of Nut, starring Dick Van Dyke.

Now Kanin seems wedded to films once more. He and Miss Gordon have written I Passed as a Teen-ager, which he will direct this summer. Among his other projects is the epic western, The Flight of the Nez Perce.

All About ART

by JACK HAMBLETON

You may think that Just One Drop of Water and Mermaid is an unusual title for a painting until you see one called Girl in Hat and Hello House or Girl and Fortune Cookie House but then by this time you're in the spirit of the thing and who needs titles anyway.

These whimsical titles and 37 others are affixed to the work of Raymond Chow, a talented, 27-year-old Vancouver artist, whose work is now on display in Kelowna.

The drawings are mostly done in Vancouver and San Francisco; streets in the older sections of town, old houses (don't be alarmed if you see an ornate chandelier hanging from the sky), cable cars, boats, girls, bridges, buildings and all stuff like that.

All done with immaculate taste and impeccable draughtsmanship, of which there is so little left these days. Raymond Chow gives you a new look at things which have been there all the time but most people never really see. He shows them to you in a different way, distilling the essence of the subject, adding a dash of whimsy here and there and leaving the rest to you.

Perhaps the best thing which can be said about Chow's work has been said by Raymond himself, and I quote:

"Drawing hasn't received enough merit. A good drawing is often more difficult to do than an oil painting. A drawing in ink just cannot be worked and reworked for corrections as a painting. I draw with a 39-cent ballpoint pen, the writing media of this country. I have travelled with my pen and sketch book to record old fun sectors of Vancouver, Toronto, Montreal, San Francisco and New York. The drawings of mine on exhibit are direct from my sketch book. Whenever my drawings begin to feel like work, I trip off to my pianos to refreshen my line.

Each drawing has taken me 26 years of living experience... each drawing is an accumulation of the experiences I have heard or seen; in, around and about the buildings I have drawn. Do not take my drawings lightly, because I oft make remarks of "dip" concern in the grass, on the fence or in the bricks of the "buildings"... I happen to see.

"Beauty in art to me is a combination of imagination and humor. Ugliness to me is one who thinks ugly 'thots.' I define art as doing best with what you have, for the sake of itself as love."

So there you have it. If a drawing of a partly topless female cellist in a Victoria landscape makes you nervous, forget it.

If not, come see this work; it will surely delight you and you may never have the opportunity again.

Newsweek Pays In Libel Case

LONDON (Reuters) — Newsweek magazine is to pay the London Daily Mail more than £25,000 (about $65,000) for implying last year that it would soon go out of business.

The High Court heard an agreed settlement of the Daily Mail's libel action today. No sum was disclosed but counsel for The Daily Mail told the judge that the £25,000 Newsweek had already paid into court was "part" of a substantial sum agreed.

Famous Singer Dies Of Cancer

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP) — Singer Ella Logan, who performed in musical comedy for a generation across Europe and America, is dead of cancer at 56.

Miss Logan, who scored a Broadway hit in Finian's Rainbow in 1947, died Thursday in hospital.

Miss Logan, four feet 11 inches tall, launched her career at the age of three on the stage at Paisley in her native Scotland. Her first musical comedy was Open Your Eyes.

She became a headliner in Europe's most fashionable nightclubs. A favorite of King Edward VIII when he was Prince of Wales, she often danced with him while appearing in London clubs.

In 1932, she came to America to carry on her career on Broadway and in Hollywood.

She starred in George White's Scandals, Olsen and Johnson's Sons of Fun and Calling All Stars. Her Hollywood musicals included The Golden Follies, 52nd Street and Top of the Town.

During the Second World War, she sang to troops in Europe and North Africa.

After the war came Finian's Rainbow, then semi-retirement. During the last 10 years, while living in New York, she had made occasional guest appearances on television shows.

Ballet Plots Being Created In Rundown Toronto Section

TORONTO (CP) — Behind the dusty facade of St. Lawrence Hall in a rundown section of Toronto, Roland Petit plots a ballet.

Its title is Kraanberg and on June 2 the National Ballet of Canada will give it a world premiere at the official opening of Ottawa's $46,000,000 National Arts Centre. Mr. Petit, a French choreographer who already has won renown in his homeland, is in charge of creating the full-length work.

Kraanberg now is being planned behind locked doors and the 45-year-old choreographer says it will include a score by Iannis Xenakis, a Greek composer of electronic music, and sets by Romanian artist Vassarely. As for the plot, Mr. Petit said Wednesday he started off by wanting to do "a Frankenstein work."

He said he and the composer "wanted to show how men will be changed by having new hearts and brains to replace the old ones if they wear out."

"We wanted to show how men will try to achieve perfection in the future."

To achieve perfection now, Mr. Petit already is holding rigorous rehearsals with the National Ballet in St. Lawrence Hall, a public meeting hall built in 1850 and renovated as a Centennial project.

Ottawa will make its mark in the ballet world this year, for Mr. Petit considers the premiere as "probably the most important opening in the ballet world this year."

The musical score has been written for an orchestra, but half of it will be played on tapes and will make use of echo chambers and distortions. The score "is not really electronic."

but "it is not traditional either since it has no real melody line."

The set will include thin black and white vertical lines across the back of the stage and a smaller series of similar lines moving slowly back and forth across the back lines. Mirrors will form the side of the stage and coming down toward centre stage will be two large shapes, one a globe and the other a diamond.

Mr. Petit is considered one of the great contemporary ballet figures.

At 21 he created and danced in Les Forains, a major ballet of its time. Four years later he choreographed Carmen for his own company, Les Ballets de Paris, and danced with his wife Renee Jeanmaire.

Last summer, he created Turangalila, which won praise from Paris critics.

He considers Mr. Xenakis, who has never composed specifically for ballet before, one of the five greatest living composers. Vassarely has never done stage designs before, but Mr. Petit is optimistic about his ballet.

"It took courage for the National Ballet of Canada to hire me. I hope my work will justify their faith in me—obviously, I think it will."

One thing about the title: Mr. Petit explains it comes from two Greek words. Kraan means "to realize oneself" and erg means energy.

Big Miller and his group is helping make entertainment history in the Okanagan. The opening act at Ron Pollard's Tiki Club on Leon Avenue, Kelowna, the Big Miller show marks the first time a Valley supper club has featured live entertainment six nights a week. Backing up Big Miller, from left to right are Stuart Millman, bass; Tony Cullif, drums and Lorne Kellett, piano. Hostesses Ludy Thorburn, left and Pat Gerlach are two of six girls working at the Tiki, which opened last week. —(Courier Photo)

Seventh Wedding For Lana Turner

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Lana Turner, a movie glamor queen of the 1940s, early Thursday married night club hypnotist Dr. Ronald Dante.

The marriage was the seventh for Miss Turner, 49, and Dante's second.

Miss Turner's previous husbands were bandleader Artie Shaw, restaurant owner Stephen Crane, Bob Topping, actor Lex Barker, sportsman Fred May and businessman Robert Eaton.
